

Illinois Puts Him Over Top

Nixon Elected President

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon in his second try has been elected President of the United States with 287 electoral votes.

Two possibilities, however remote, remained that Hubert H. Humphrey might spoil Nixon's comeback: In Illinois, last of the big states to indicate its choice, it was conceivable if not likely that a recheck might put Humphrey in the lead there. A resurvey of votes in all the states just possibly might turn up unsuspected errors.

The News Election Service, which compiled results for all media, said it believed the returns reported from yesterday's election were reliable. But it announced it was making a precautionary county-by-county recheck of results from all 50 states. Humphrey conceded the presidential election to Richard M. Nixon and promised his total support to the new President-elect.

In a somewhat choked voice, Humphrey said he had talked by telephone with Nixon shortly before making the concession statement and had sent his opponent a telegram in which he officially conceded the election on the basis of unofficial voting returns. The telegram said that on the basis of "unofficial returns you are the winner."

"Please know you will have my support in unifying and leading the nation," Humphrey said. He added that he was "confident that with the constructive leadership of both parties we can go on building a better nation in the spirit of peace and harmony."

Nixon and Humphrey ran neck and neck in the popular vote. But the Republican piled up an electoral vote which apparently assured his victory.

His winning margin came when Illinois' 26 electoral votes were added to the 261 Nixon previously had won in other states. This put him well past the 270 needed for election.

Returns from 92 per cent of the nation's precincts gave: Nixon — 29,010,105 popular votes, 43 per cent and 287 electoral votes. Humphrey—28,814,284 popular, 43 per cent and 181 electoral. Independent party candidate George C. Wallace—9,036,420, 13 per cent and 45 electoral. Nixon moved into a com-

Bell's Future Bright In County GOP Circles

By LYNN MULVANEY
Ulster County's new assemblyman, Republican-Conservative H. Clark Bell, has chalked up his third political victory in two years.

The Woodstock lawyer's unofficial 7,500 plurality over his Democratic opponent, Dr. Gertrude P. Gorman yesterday gave Bell not only the seat he sought but a significant place in the Ulster County GOP's future. Bell's first political plunge took place in 1966 when he fought the party organization and won a Constitutional Convention delegate post. Again earlier this year, Bell fought a tough primary campaign for the assembly nomination and emerged victorious.

Yesterday's tally, in which Bell also defeated the Liberal and perennial candidate George Majestic, was much as predicted by both Bell himself and GOP party chief Judge John B. Sterley.

Both were confident of his victory with the success of the race dependent upon the vote of the city of Kingston and the towns of New Paltz, Wawarsing and Lloyd. Bell felt confident that he would do well in the balance of the county and he did.

The three towns came through for him with 100-vote pluralities in Lloyd and Wawarsing and a 300-vote edge in New Paltz. He lost the City of Kingston by about 800 votes.

But the loss was not entirely unexpected and seemed all the more plausible especially in view of the Democratic sweep of the aldermanic seats.

Bell's county-wide margin over Gorman is reminiscent of the 1966 victory of retiring Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson who nosed out his Democratic opponent, Majestic, by 7,987 votes. Running as a Liberal yesterday Majestic was given about 2,000 votes.

That Bell's Conservative backing helped add to his plurality as well as win him several districts which might have gone to Gorman is evidenced in voting results of a number of districts in the Town of Lloyd. Bell received 194 votes on the GOP line, Gorman 197 and Bell an additional 22 on the Conservative ballot.

Bell's largest bloc of Conservative votes came from District 3, Wawarsing which gave him 164 votes. Hurley District

1 gave him 74 and Saugerties District 11, gave him 75. Results of the Town of Ulster, which gave Bell a big boost in the June Primary, reveal that two districts went to Gorman—Lake Katrine and East Kingston. Bell won handily in towns such as Denning, Hardenburgh, Hurley, Rochester and Woodstock. In other towns some districts split between Bell and Gorman: New Paltz, Saugerties, Esopus and Wawarsing are a few.

Bell did best in the city in the first district of the Fifth Ward and the second district of the Third Ward. The 34-year-old attorney, who shares a law partnership with Howard St. John and Robert Ronder in Kingston, sought the party nomination in March at the GOP convention. He was defeated by 15 delegate votes. He went on to a rough primary fight with Savago which left the party in a state of flux for a time. As the campaign for the assembly progressed, many but not all of the Savago supporters, including Savago himself, came to his aid. Bell, who refused Conservative support before the primary, later accepted it.

Dutchess Pivotal In Fish Victory

By HUGH REYNOLDS
"It was a long, tough campaign," Hamilton Fish said today, in Kingston as the unofficial tally stood at 88,412 for him and 84,046 for his Democratic opponent John S. Dyson.

Meanwhile, Dyson had originally reportedly requested Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to impound voting machines in the district in the wake of his narrow defeat. But a Dyson spokesman said this request was changed as the Democrat conceded defeat.

It was a tight race with Fish winning four of the five counties in the 28th District. He lost only Schoharie County to Dyson, by a 5,080 to 5,146 count.

The rest was Fish's. He carried Ulster County by a 27,603 to 26,067 vote; Dutchess by a 37,543 to 36,629 vote; Greene by 6,719 to 5,922 and Columbia by a 11,465 to 10,132 count.

Dutchess Was Key
The key was Dutchess County and both candidates had comments on it. Fish said, "We ran well in Dutchess. The whole party ran well. It was a joint effort."

Fish singled out newly re-elected State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. for helping him in Dutchess. "The credit must go to Jay Rolison," he said. "He did most of the speaking for the party. He spoke for me as he campaigned through Dutchess and Ulster."

Fish said he had hoped to stay with Republican Presidential candidate, Richard M. Nixon, in the voting and this is what put him over the top.

Dyson agreed with this in an interview at the Imperial 400 Motel on Broadway where he was watching the campaign being tallied from the Walnut Grove on Field Court, via closed circuit television.

"Fish's whole campaign was what he and Nixon could do," Dyson said. Dyson described his loss of Dutchess as "incredible." "I spent the whole last month campaigning in Dutchess," he said. "We had to come out of Dutchess with three of four thousand votes in order to have any chance at all."

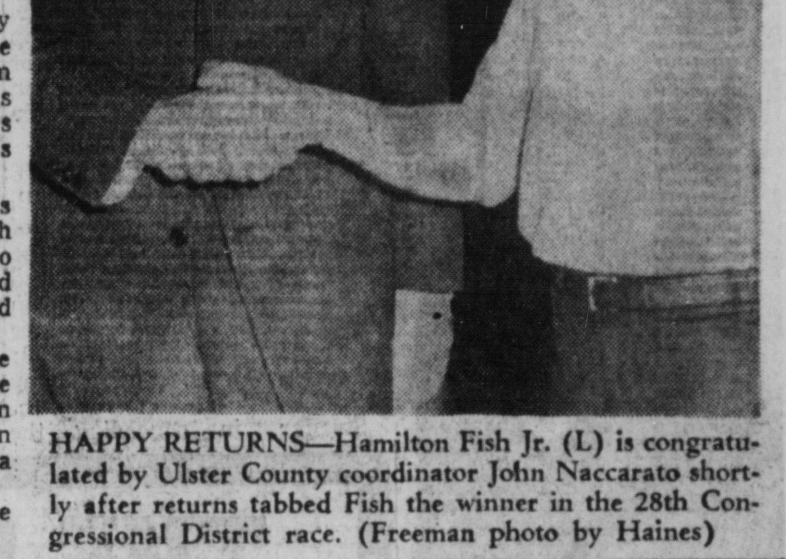

A Moral Victory
Dyson termed his win in stronghold, as a "moral victory." "But that isn't going to get me to Washington," he said. Dyson said he did as well as Congressmen Joseph Y. Resnick, who defeated Fish in a close election in 1966, in the cities but did not do as well in the rural areas.

Dyson was interviewed by The Freeman shortly before midnight in his motel room which he shared with his parents. The candidate's views fluctuated with the returns as time rapidly ran out.

At 11:45 p.m. he said, "It's all over. We're not enough ahead anywhere to do anything." His mood changed at midnight when he declared the race a "lossup."

He was asked if he felt he should have taken a more liberal line in the campaign. "Judging from the suburban results, 'I took too liberal a line,'" he said. Both candidates were (Con. on Page 11, Col. 6)

Next on Rolison's Mind: Expected Special Session

By SHANE CROSBY
Next on the mind of the State Legislature, to which Republican Jay P. Rolison was re-elected by more than 25,000 vote margin yesterday, is the expected special session in an attempt to resolve the New York City school strike.

The Poughkeepsie lawyer took his home city by an estimated 2 to 1 margin over nearest rival, A. E. Woolley. Rolison polled an unofficial 42,255 votes in Dutchess County, against 25,094 for the New Paltz photographer.

In Ulster County Rolison was given an unofficial 19,262 over Woolley's 13,407. His margin in Dutchess alone was 5,000 over that of two years ago when he beat former Poughkeepsie Mayor Horace Graham by some 15,000 votes.

Kingston reelected Rolison by some 1,100 votes. Woolley was given 4,495 to Rolison's 5,586 in the city. The New Paltz voters favored Rolison over their home-town candidate by a slim 61 votes in unofficial tabulations. The incumbent was given 1,203 to Woolley's 1,142, with all but one district reporting. Rolison was considered a favorite in the race even though his chief opponent, Woolley, staged a vigorous campaign and once claimed to have shaken the hand of more than 18,000 voters in the two-county district.

Conservative Michael E. Lange of Wappingers Falls and Liberal Joseph Marvella, operator of a Poughkeepsie barber shop, fared much worse, polling under 10,000 votes combined. Lange, a salesman for a drug firm, was given 3,997 votes in Dutchess County and 2,144 in Ulster. Kingston gave the Conservative 462 votes.

Liberal Marvella, who campaigned against Woolley more than against the incumbent Rolison, polled 1,684 in Dutchess and 452 in Ulster County. He was given 115 in the city of Kingston. Contacted after his victory (Con. on Page 11, Col. 2)

Streifer Runs Sixth in Race For Supreme Court Judgeship

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
Abraham Streifer, a Kingston attorney, the only candidate from Ulster County in the six-way contest for the 14-year term of Supreme Court justice, finished sixth.

Streifer, who served for more than 31 years as confidential law clerk for Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick, ran third in Ulster County balloting. Under the voting machine set up, a voter had the option to vote for any three candidates on any line. Streifer polled 134,577 votes on the Democratic line in the total vote of the seven-county Third Judicial District.

The winners were Rensselaer County Court Judge John Casey, Republican-Conservative 181,550; Greene County Court Judge George L. Cobb, Republican-Conservative 163,572; and Rensselaer County Surrogate Judge A. Franklin Mahoney, Democrat-Conservative 152,561. The three with the largest number of votes in the seven-county totals were elected.

Columbia County Judge William Christiana, Republican, ran fourth with 146,058 votes, and Sullivan County Attorney Milton Levine, Democrat, registered 136,007 in fifth place.

Ulster Winner

Cobb of Catskill was the top vote getter of the six in incomplete and unofficial Ulster County tabulations. He delivered 37,847 votes. Casey, polled 31,851 in Ulster and Streifer ran third with 24,366 votes. Of these totals the Conservative Party line produced 10,942 for Casey and 13,663 for Cobb.

The Third Judicial District in addition to Ulster, includes the Counties of Rensselaer, Greene, Sullivan, Schoharie, Columbia and Albany.

Streifer's totals in unofficial tabulations from the other counties was as follows: Rensselaer 21,178; Greene 5,408; Sullivan 8,662; Schoharie 3,798; Columbia 6,606; and Albany 64,559.

The totals for Casey, the top vote getter were: Rensselaer 46,355; Greene 9,167; Sullivan 9,178; Schoharie 5,837; Columbia 12,406; and Albany 66,756.

Tops Greene Poll

Cobb, a native of Catskill, polled the highest number of votes of all six in his home county, Greene. He registered 11,823. The Catskill Republican also ran strong in Rensselaer where he delivered 37,949; Columbia 12,209; and Albany 50,134.

Streifer, in conceding the election said he was not sorry he entered the race. He said, "Anyone who has something to offer should enter the political arena. I never knew I had so many friends and am grateful for their support and assistance. I wish the result could have been different. However I extend my sincere congratulations to the victors and wish for them a most successful administration in our judicial system."

Throughout the campaign, Streifer, a Democrat was heartened by the support of Republicans in Ulster County. He had received the endorsement of the Ulster County Bar Association. During the campaign he stressed the great need for an additional Supreme Court justice in the county due to the abundant work load in the county. The Republican judicial convention failed to nominate a candidate from Ulster County.

Casey, 47 is a native of South Troy and served in Rensselaer as assistant district attorney and district attorney prior to his election as county judge.

Votes at 102

ROMANCE, W.Va. (AP) — Jenkins "Jink" Jones, 102, cast his ballot for president Tuesday for the 20th time.

Jones, a resident of this hamlet north of Charleston, said he has been a Democrat since he first voted, in the 1888 presidential contest. He has not missed a presidential election since, he said.

He voted for Grover Cleveland then, and Hubert H. Humphrey Tuesday.

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
Sheriff William B. Martin, who learned early last evening that he was reelected to a second three-year term said, "I must consider this a tremendous vote of confidence."

"I am deeply grateful to the public for their support of our efforts to bring law and order to Ulster County. This will encourage me and my staff to go on to even greater accomplishments during the new term."

"I realize many Republicans voted for me and recognized that we were doing a good job." In unofficial and incomplete returns from 113 out of 131 districts, Martin polled 32,219 votes against Thomas F. Mayone, Republican, 18,612.

13,607 Ahead

Included in Martin's total is 3,560 Conservative Party votes and 762 on the Liberal line. Martin's plurality at this point is 13,607.

Martin again carried the City of Kingston and the most populated townships in the county.

Martin delivered a 5,321 majority in the City of Kingston over his opponent. Martin polled 8,738 combined votes in complete but unofficial returns from the 26 districts in the city. He polled 7,849 on the Democratic line; 707 Conservative and 182 Liberal votes. Mayone's total for the city was 3,417.

Martin's total vote was more than any candidate of any party running in the city.

In 1965, when Martin made his run for the sheriff's post, he defeated William A. Krum, Republican by 1,436. Martin polled 24,156 on the Democratic line and 1,565 Liberal votes for a total of 25,721. Krum garnered 24,285 on the Republican line.

In the 1965 official tally, Martin carried the City of Kingston by 1,740 and won in 7 out of 20 towns in the county. He carried the Town of Ulster by a mere 5 votes and won in Wawarsing, Rochester, Marlboro, Lloyd, Gardiner and Esopus.

Lowenstein Wins Again

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N.Y. (UPI) — Allard K. Lowenstein, an early critic of the Vietnam war and a hero of the new politics, was elected to Congress today by 99,861 votes in Nassau County's 5th Congressional District.

Lowenstein, a founder of the anti-Vietnam war movement and a major supporter of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, defeated Conservative-Republican Mason L. Hampton Jr. Hampton supported President Johnson's Vietnam policy as well as an end to federally financed welfare programs. Hampton drew 95,452 votes.

Lowenstein's campaign attracted nationwide attention because his long history of civil rights activity and his efforts to prevent the re-election of Johnson. Many observers felt that Lowenstein, more than any other single individual, was responsible for Johnson's March 31 announcement he would not run for re-election.

Lowenstein won the Democratic nomination in the June primary, but was unable to devote much time to his own race until after the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Martin. In his first attempt for the sheriff's post, he lost to Claude Bell, Republican in 1962 by 3,515 votes. At that time Martin won the City of Kingston by 727 votes.

Comparisons of the county returns could not be made as totals of Tuesday's election were incomplete late today.

Mayone, county investigator in the District Attorney's Office, in his concession said, "It was a hard, clean campaign."

"I talked to many, many people around the county and have no regrets. I am thankful I entered the race for sheriff because it gave me an opportunity to meet a lot of nice people. I congratulate my opponent and wish him the best of luck."

Both Martin and Mayone followed careers in law enforcement most of their adult lives.

Martin, 54, a native of this city, retired from the New York State police in 1957 after 21 years of service. At the time of his retirement, he was a clock patrols during the first zone sergeant in charge of Ulster and Sullivan Counties.

Stressed Record

Martin stressed his record during the campaign and reviewed the innovations he brought about in the County Sheriff's Office. He revealed to his constituents the necessity of increased jail security due to the out-moded facilities in the county speaking on hundreds of jail. Martin emphasized the inauguration of around the club meetings.

Broad Support for Sen. Javits In His Election to Third Term

NEW YORK (UPI) —Republican Jacob K. Javits, brandishing a broad base of political support, trounced Democratic peace candidate Paul H. O'Dwyer Tuesday night to win a third term in the U.S. Senate.

O'Dwyer conceded victory shortly after 11:15 p.m. at his New York City campaign headquarters, as Javits built up a strong lead.

With 12,658 of 13,578 precincts counted, Javits had 2,927,328 votes to 1,888,605 for O'Dwyer. James L. Buckley, the Conservative party candidate, trailed in third with 965,456. Herman B. Ferguson, Freedom and Peace party candidate, got 7,635 votes.

Tribute to Vote Power
The victory was a tribute to the vote-getting power of Javits, who withstood strong challenges from both the left and the right.

O'Dwyer, who barely lost to Javits in a congressional race 20 years ago, led the forces loyal to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the state.

The Democrats held a comfortable lead in the state's 41-member congressional delegation. But the Republicans were threatening a couple of seats.

Javits walked onto the stage of the ballroom at the Hotel Roosevelt at 11:35 p.m. to acknowledge O'Dwyer's concession.

"I shall join," Javits said, "with a full heart in the major work for our land — to make whole the American morale and to fortify the faith of the people in the mission and destiny of our nation."

O'Dwyer pledged to continue his fight to change the foreign policy of the United States, saying his defeat marks the end of "one phase of the campaign of politics of participation."

"The movement which got its impetus last year has a right to feel proud of its accomplishments, but the killing goes on, the foreign policy is still to be altered," he said.

O'Dwyer's failure to endorse the national Democratic ticket.

Acknowledged Discomfort

Javits, who has defeated such political names as Robert F.

Wagner Jr., former mayor of New York, and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. in his long career.

had acknowledged some discomfort at the national GOP ticket.

Before the Miami Republican convention, Javits was an ardent backer of Governor Rockefeller. But both men fell in behind the Nixon ticket and worked hard in the campaign.

Javits commented that he was disappointed in the candidacy of Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP vice presidential choice.

On such issues as gun control and the war in Vietnam, Javits was caught in a vice. Up-state conservatives chided his condemnations of the war and his backing of federal gun control legislation.

His Democratic opponent charged he was a Johnny-come-lately in the anti-war movement.

In his last senatorial test, Javits defeated the Democratic-Liberal candidate, James B. Donovan, by nearly one million votes. In his first run for the Senate, he downed Wagner by a half million votes.

Javits ruined the political career of the junior Roosevelt in a 1954 race for state attorney general.

Dutchess Voting
The Dutchess County breakdown shows Nixon with 44,881; Humphrey 30,983; Wallace 5,615. For Senator it was Javits 45,232; O'Dwyer 23,189; and Buckley 14,461.

In Columbia, Nixon got 13,836; Humphrey 7,832; Wallace 1,362. For Senator, Javits 13,590; O'Dwyer 6,239; Buckley 2,643.

Unofficial Schoharie County figures show, Nixon 5,862; Humphrey 3,885; Wallace 618. For Senator, Javits 6,040; O'Dwyer 3,621; Buckley 973.

In Greene County, Nixon 9,997; Humphrey 6,098; Wallace 827. In the Senatorial race, Javits received 8,563; O'Dwyer 4,187, and Buckley got 1,785.

Incumbent Republican votes.

Nixon, Javits Big Winners In 28th District Voting

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Both Richard Nixon and Jacob Javits were big winners last night in the 28th Congressional District.

Unofficial figures from the five-county 28th give the Republican candidate for President 108,346 votes to Democrat Hubert Humphrey's 68,856 and Courage Party George Wallace's 12,417.

Incumbent Republican Senator Javits ran behind Nixon by over 11,000 votes in the district. Unofficial returns give Javits 96,735 to Democrat Paul O'Dwyer's 53,447 and Conservative James Buckley's 29,113.

The five counties include Ulster, Dutchess, Greene, Schoharie, and Columbia.

More Than in '60
In Ulster County, Nixon's plurality over his Democratic opponent was 571 votes more than what he received in 1960 when he beat John F. Kennedy by 13,143 votes.

The Nixon-Agnew ticket took Ulster by 13,714 votes. The Republican ticket tallied 33,770, with Humphrey-Muskie getting 20,056, and Wallace-LeMay racking up 3,995.

In Kingston, Nixon won with a 1,077 plurality over his Democratic opponent. In 1960, the then vice-president took the city by 1,612 votes.

Two years later, in 1962, when Nixon was losing his bid to become governor of California, Javits took Ulster County by 11,012 votes. The Senator's plurality in the City of Kingston that year was 1,525 over Democrat-Liberal James B. Donovan.

This year, Javits topped O'Dwyer with a 7,119 plurality, but Conservative Buckley received 9,251 votes meaning, then, that the Senator won the county with less than a majority of all the votes cast.

The Wallace vote took its greatest toll in Dutchess County where the former Alabama governor received 5,615 votes. He got 3,995 votes in Ulster, 1,362 in Columbia, 827 in Greene, and 618 in Schoharie.

In Saugerties, the area where "Dump-Javits" movement started, unofficial returns show that although Javits took the township, he was well off his run six years ago.

The Buckley strength was especially high in the town even though the Conservative Senatorial candidate ran third.

In 1964, the last year of a Senatorial race in New York State, incumbent Republican votes.

ANOTHER TERM — Jubilant Senator Jacob Javits stands in front of a picture of himself and waves to supporters during victory celebration at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City. Albany Democratic Machine Dead

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —The oldest, most reliable political machine in New York State and possibly the country broke down today.

The Albany County Democratic organization, firmly under the control of Daniel P. O'Connell since 1921, lost all three of its state legislative seats and the race for district attorney.

Governor Rockefeller, a Republican, ordered all voting machines in Albany impounded by state police and sheriff's deputies at the request of Joseph Frangella, GOP county chairman. Machines in Rensselaer County across the Hudson River were also impounded.

In the upsets, Harvey Lifset, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, was defeated by 27-year old Fred Field, an engineer from suburban Colonie. Assemblyman Frank Cox, 72, was defeated by Raymond Skuse in the heavily Democratic Albany city district. Sen. Julian Erway lost to GOP candidate Walter Langley.

Arnold Proskin, a Republican, beat Joseph Scully, the Democratic candidate for district attorney.

Rep. Daniel E. Button, R-Albany, former newspaper editor, won re-election to the seat he captured in 1966.

It was the first time the 83-year-old O'Connell's organization had lost more than one of its state legislative seats.

His durability and the continued success of his old-style politics made a legend that extended even to academic circles. Textbooks and political science professors have pointed to the county of Albany as an example of how things once were in the days of patronage, precinct captains and pull that ended in most areas at the turn of the century.

As an indication of O'Connell's power, the Albany city council —elected in 1967 — contains no Republicans, and Democrats hold every city of Albany seat in the county legislature.

Biggest in History City Dems: An Incredible Win

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Kingston Democrats scored an incredible victory yesterday, taking 12 of 13 aldermanic seats. John Machione of the Second Ward was the only Republican to win election and the Democrats did not run a candidate in his ward.

Elected were John Heitzman (1st Ward), John Machione (Second Ward), Joseph Conlin (Third Ward), Florence Ludlow (Fourth Ward), John Finch (Fifth Ward), Donald Quick (Sixth Ward), Michael Perry (Seventh Ward), Emilio Primo (Eighth Ward), Fred Harder (Ninth Ward), Clifford Sinsabaugh (10th Ward), Edward Norton (11th Ward), Peter Mancuso (12th Ward), and James Madden (13th Ward).

The first Ward was fairly close with Heitzman beating Republican Robert Stickles, 557-488. Worthington Rider received 52 votes on the Conservative ticket.

In the Second Ward Machione won easily with 640 votes to his Conservative opponent's (Richard Riseley) 156 votes.

Close in 3rd
The Third Ward race was very close with Conlin polling 437 votes and Emile Taiclet, 411 votes. A Conservative, Robert Phinney, long-time Republican supervisor, received 100 votes.

The Fourth Ward was a key race and a close one with Mrs. Ludlow returning to the Council with a 39 vote margin. She beat Republican Peter Fisher, incumbent 10th Ward representative, 420-390. Billy J. Knowles received 20 votes on the Conservative line.

The Fifth Ward was perhaps the biggest upset in the city. Finch racked up Louis Smith, his Republican opponent by an overwhelming 745-393 margin.

Clarence Kaiser pulled 26 votes on the Conservative line.

Smith had been given the edge by most observers in the Fifth Ward, part of the old Second, a traditional Republican stronghold.

The Sixth saw another landslide victory as Quick outpolled Brendon Alexander, the Republican by a 610 to 371 margin. Alexander had defeated Robert Schantz, the Republican alderman from the old Second for the nomination in June. Bruce Tierney polled 23 votes for the Conservatives.

In the Seventh Ward Michael Perry won by a comfortable margin over Republican Richard Cahill, 446-373.

The Eighth pitted two veteran campaigners and alderman

Harder Breezes

In the Ninth, Harder breezed in in the lightest balloting in the city, beating Ronald Cole, 303-201.

The Tenth pitted two men who had faced each other last year, with much the same results. Sinsabaugh beat Frank Fabbie, the Republican, 273-236 with Iona Ashby, the Conservative, polling 38 votes.

In the 11th Ward Edward Norton, current 7th Ward Democrat alderman, racked up 423 votes with virtually no opposition. His opponent was Isabelle McHugh, the Conservative, who polled 61 votes.

In the 12th Ward, Peter Mancuso, running alone, came in with 624 votes, returning for his fourth term in the Council.

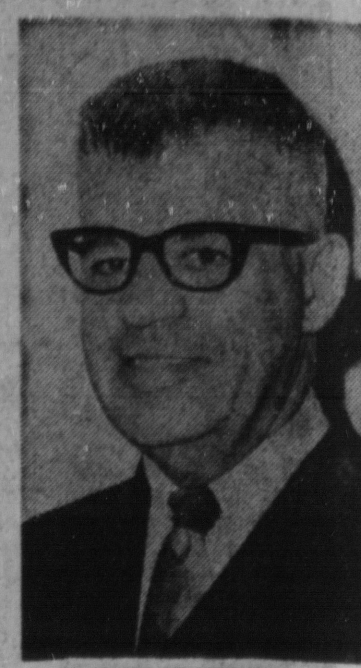

The 13th Ward was another close race with Madden edging Sims, 470-542. Madden picked up 12 votes on the Liberal line for part of his total while the Conservative in the Ward, Donald Woods, polled 42 votes. Madden is the incumbent alderman from the old Ninth Ward.

Biggest in History

MICHAEL PERRY

up the biggest majority in of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's current term. One thing is certain. John Machione will be the minority leader.

Congressional Race Aftermath: Satisfaction, Detached Analysis

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The 1968 race for Congress in the 28th District was marked by quiet satisfaction by the winner and detached analysis by the loser.

Hamilton Fish was given a rousing reception by some 60 persons at Johnny's By-Pass Tavern on the East Chester Street By-Pass around 2:30 this morning. He looked more relieved than jubilant. "I'm glad it's over," he said.

Dyson, on the other hand, seemed more concerned about why he lost rather than the fact that he had. He never did officially concede last night but left little doubt that he felt he had lost. He appeared at a loss, however, to explain how.

The supporters and staff for both were quite a bit more exuberant.

Said Glenn Van Bramer, Dy-son's campaign manager, "He'll be back. It'll be an entirely different scene at the Walnut Grove (Dyson headquarters in Kingston), two years from now."

Barry Leads Cheers

Fish's campaign head, John Barry, led a cheering contingent of Fish supporters, including John Naccarato, the proprietor and Fish's Ulster Coordinator.

The word was sent shortly after 2 a. m. that Dyson planned to ask Gov. Rockefeller to impound the ballots in the 28th District. One Fish supporter said, "He (Dyson) couldn't buy this election at the polls and he's not going to buy it in court."

Dyson, for the most part, was at a loss to explain his defeat in Dutchess. He said he had expected to lose Ulster but that a heavy plurality in Dutchess County would pull him through. As that plurality failed to develop, and in fact, was on the minus side as Fish carried Dutchess, Dyson tried to figure what he did wrong.

Fish supporters had some answers. They said that Dyson "swallowed the Communist line." As one man put it, "when Dyson came out and compared Viet Cong terrorists with our American revolutionaries, he blew the election."

Actually, the man said, "We didn't really pick it up until 'He's been to P-TA meetings, dinners, parades, everything."

The people have gotten to know him. He isn't a carpetbagger any more." Fish had been accused of being a New York City lawyer who came back to the 28th District to seek election during the 1966 campaign.

Dyson said he was wary of the heavy vote coming out in the predominantly Republican 28th District, going into Election Day quiet apprehensively.

"I'll try again," he said. "I suppose it'll be easier in a non-presidential year."

Steady Campaign

Another man said that Fish's victory was not due to any last minute boners by Dyson but by a steady campaign by Fish that began shortly after he lost to Resnick two years ago.

"Ham's been working for this election for two years," he said. "He's been to P-TA meetings, dinners, parades, everything."

The implication of our program failure in the prime time system has been felt all the way across the country.

Many states will go without returns rather than issue figures which were obviously in error at the state level. I have 1 a.m. EST to try to solve the problem. This followed an earlier failure.

The NES was set up by the two major U.S. news agencies and the three nationwide broadcast networks to gather election results for them.

J.R. Eimers, executive director of NES, issued the following statement in New York early Wednesday:

Post Election Assessments: County Chairmen Manage Smiles

By LYNN MULVANEY

Assessing the results of yesterday's election races, the Ulster county chairmen of the two major parties both managed smiles despite the victories and defeats on both sides.

For Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democratic county chairman and assembly candidate, his defeat as well as the state senate and congressional losses made the task more difficult.

"It is always a human quality to be disheartened in defeat," he explained. "But, no one loses an election, in the broad sense . . . it is a great education."

Wishing his opponent H. Clark Bell his best, Gorman said he never-the-less felt "a particular sense of hurt because of the defeat of candidates who shared the ticket with him — John Dyson and A. E. Woolley. Hurt "because of the excellent caliber of the men themselves and what they had to offer this county."

Gorman expressed pleasure at his party's sweep of the aldermanic offices in the city and at the success of the sheriff candidate. He concluded saying he felt the party had won a victory in many ways for it had offered "excellence and fulfilled a moral responsibility."

Judge John B. Sterley, GOP county chairman, was obviously pleased with the outcome of almost all races saying that they had turned out largely as he expected they would — with the exception of the city ticket. Talking of the almost total loss of GOP aldermanic posts, Judge Sterley said he "expected losses in that area but not to the extent that it has happened."

Citing his previous predictions on the congressional, senatorial and assembly races, Judge Sterley proved his predictions were, for the most part, correct.

With regard to the loss of the sheriff candidate, Thomas Mayone, Sterley recalled that he had indicated it would be a "close race."

Judge Sterley expressed particular pleasure at how well Congressional candidate Hamilton Fish Jr. had fared and referred to Sen. Rolison's handsome margin over his opponents saying, "That Rolison is going like a house afire."

Aside from the defeated A. E. Woolley, who promised "I'll be back", most of the candidates and the chairmen voice no particular plans for the future, preferring to take a wait and see attitude.

Bell's Smashing Victory No Surprise to Workers

When the bells rang out at Republican headquarters for H. Clark Bell, victorious assembly candidate, it came as no surprise to the hundreds of party workers and supporters who had watched the voting scoreboard all night. Bell held a healthy lead to begin with and it grew healthier as the evening progressed.

The high point of excitement came when the 34-year-old candidate mounted a table to tell the crowd that he had just received a telephone call, "a lovely phone call," from his opponent, Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, who had just conceded the election.

Bell's wife, Joy, was equally joyous. So were the many women from all districts of the county and city who clamored for their new assemblyman with a chorus of bell ringing.

Praises Workers

"I wouldn't be up on this table telling you this," Bell shouted to everyone, "if you hadn't put me up here . . . your work has shown here tonight, fellas," he said, and then went on to praise various workers and towns for supporting him so well.

They cheered him all the time he spoke.

An overflow crowd packed the Broadway headquarters beginning shortly after 9 p.m. In a back room, party workers and leaders took telephone calls, poured over adding machines and thousands of figures as they filtered in. In front others watched the ever-changing scoreboard as it registered the votes of all candidates from the top of the ticket to the bottom.

"He deserved to win, he worked so hard," said a tired but happy Joy Bell just as she and her husband headed for home.

"It's been a long eight months," she concluded.

A Beaming Chairman

Meanwhile county chairman Judge John B. Sterley, beaming at many of the Republican victories, kept close watch on all races as did other party leaders.

Members of the press and radio manned telephones in every corner of the room and so great was the crowd and the interest that many times, persons not actively working, were asked to move out front. The crowd at times spilled onto the sidewalk.

As Bell supporters began to move on, after their man's announced victory, one woman began gathering up the small-handled silver bells they had rung. "Hold on to them," someone yelled, "we're going to want to use them again two years from now."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 6, 1968

Work to Be Done

The Presidential campaign now happily past was one of the most acrimonious in the history of U.S. politics. Some regrettable things were said. Because of this, the now hackneyed counsel spoken the day after many a previous election takes on special meaning this time: We must close ranks, bearing in mind that loyalty to the nation surpasses partisan loyalty, and build together as a people united in broad common purpose.

It is easy to say this; it will be hard to do it. Those who are tasting victory may find it difficult to be magnanimous toward the losers—to rise above the petty temptation to "rub it in." Those whose favored candidates were defeated now have to resist bitterness. To be generous in defeat is even harder than to be generous in victory.

Far more is involved than the simple political amenities symbolized by more or less gracious messages of concession and good wishes. Nor do we suggest a mere extension of the "love your enemies" philosophy into politics, though that in itself would not be a bad thing at all. Our intention, rather, is to emphasize the signal importance of an effort on both sides to let the past be past and look to the future. Great challenge and great hope are the hallmarks of that future. There is work to be done. Let us accept the voice of the people, and do it together.

On-the-Job Accidents

Fifty-five workers lose their lives on the job every work day. Over 8,000 are disabled on the job daily. And over 27,000 are injured every day at work.

This shocking state of affairs was revealed by Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor, before the National Safety Council's labor section, made up of union safety engineers. She cited the proposed Occupational and Safety Act of 1968 as the first comprehensive bill of its kind to have presidential backing. Despite that, Congress adjourned before acting on it.

Appealing for passage of such a bill in the next Congress, Mrs. Peterson said that the U. S. Government spent $400 million to make the Apollo spacecraft safe after the tragic accident that took the lives of three astronauts last year. In contrast, combined federal, state and private contributions for industrial safety totaled less than $96 million a year, two cents a worker in Alabama and five cents in Texas.

Safety on the job is essential to the advancement of the American economy. The Federal Government should set nationwide standards for occupational safety and health, and to require that this end is achieved in the most effective and efficient manner.

What of Our Defense?

Since February, a 35-man team has been studying alternative world strategies and their cost and impact on allies and foes alike, so that President Johnson will be able to present his successor with alternatives open to him in his direction of our foreign affairs.

America's choices range from the implications of the United States as world policeman, contending with breaches of the peace wherever they may occur in the free world, to Fortress America concept, in which most American forces would be withdrawn into the United States, to be involved only when the security of the nation demands.

Within those two extremes, there are many concepts to serve the national policy the next President conceives to be in the best interest of the country. Some of the considerations involve the maintenance of bases abroad, now numbering in the thousands, and ranging from such major installations as Okinawa and Taiwan, in listening and tracking posts. They also involve the gold flow, for it costs nearly $5 billion to maintain these bases.

The studies are factual. The decisions will have to be made by the next President. But it is thoughtful and considerate of President Johnson to brief his successor so thoroughly in the most important part of his job.

Queen Elizabeth II opened a new session of Parliament with a pledge by the Labor Government to lower the voting age from 21 to 18. That would add three million voters to the rolls, and the government would naturally expect them to express their appreciation by voting Labor.

"I must say that when I was your age the thought that I might reach the venerable age of 78 never entered my mind, General Eisenhower wrote the students of Eisenhower College at Seneca Falls, N. Y. Thanks to the expansion of the life expectancy, 78 is no longer a venerable age, as Ike himself has shown despite his many bouts with heart trouble.

David Lawrence Says

Effects of Presidential Election to Be Felt Later

WASHINGTON — What does a presidential election really mean to the average person? The speeches on radio and television or in the press do not explain what may happen in a new administration. It isn't just the choices of a new leader but what he will do when he takes office that causes great uncertainty.

The truth is the effects of an election may not be felt right away, and they often do not have very much to do with what has been said by any of the candidates during the campaign. It isn't considered wise politically, for instance, to define future policies in a specific sense because there are so many unknown contingencies that could affect them.

Perhaps the most sensitive single group in the entire country today is that which is composed of the heads of business and financial enterprises. An election could mean a turn for the better or for worse in the economic life of the country. Businessmen are deeply concerned, for they need to know whether interest rates are going up or down or whether mortgages will be harder or easier to get on homes and buildings. Will the new administration impose higher taxes, or will there possibly be a tax cut? Will money flow easily so that prices can continue to be raised, as wages also go up?

The big question always is whether a recession may be in the offing and, if so, how extensive the unemployment will be. If this occurs, who will be the first to be laid off? Will there be racial discrimination in handling the layoffs?

The problem of wage and price control has been evaded for a long time now. The federal government has been reluctant to come to grips with it. Yet both wages and prices are rising, and an inflation has developed which is steadily diminishing the purchasing power of the dollar. As the cost of living for the individual family goes up and more income is needed, many a housewife finds it necessary to get employment, which often causes a neglect of children. Thus, many hardships can ensue as a result of an economic crisis in the nation.

The problems are not merely national but international as well. Some American industries are finding themselves squeezed out of markets right here in the United States because foreign manufacturers can produce goods at low labor costs and undercut American prices. Steel companies, for instance, are finding it hard to meet the competition from abroad. This is a problem confronting the government of the United States and, no matter which party occupies the White House or controls the majority in Congress, there will have to be some restraint placed on certain imports from other countries or else some American industries will be badly hurt.

Much is heard about excessive government spending and its effect upon the value of the dollar throughout the world. The pressure up to now has been to appropriate vast sums for social welfare, even though this means huge federal deficits year after year. But businessmen are troubled because they have felt a showdown is inevitable and that the government has to stop piling up big deficits and approach a balanced budget or run the risk of what has often been called a runaway inflation, when prices spiral and wages are compelled to go up to meet them.

Sometimes when there is a transition from one president to another, policies are stalemated. The interval between November 5 and January 20—nearly eleven weeks—may not seem long, but inaction in government during two and one-half months could have serious consequences. The outgoing administration doesn't want to initiate changes, and the incoming administration doesn't feel it should assume responsibility for decisions before actually taking office. The inevitable result is delay and procrastination which could prove disastrous in a crisis.

Some day the American people will demand a revision of the present system so that the transition will be made quickly, as is the case in the parliamentary systems abroad. With the size of the American economy and its involvement in world finance and trade, and with a gross national product of over $70 billion dollars, it certainly does seem risky to have to wait two and one-half months after Election Day before a new administration comes into power.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The letter was terse. "Been expecting to hear from you since I wrote asking if you would check on the sweater you sent. In the meantime, I wrote the P.O. in Saranac and am enclosing reply from postmaster. . . ." It was from Frankie Hyers. He was a comedian's comedian, a big guy with melting features who worked the Club Eighteen when the laughs came easy and the money and booze and women made of life an eternal triumph.

It's the Pagliacci syndrome. No comic can be funny if he sees the heartache on the other side of the hill. He is under a perpetual illusion that he will always be funny, that the explosion of laughter emerging from millions of throats is his personal copy-right.

Hyers had the good sense to write 1086 Broad Street, Newark, N. J., on the envelope. Another sweater will go there, because Broad and Market Street is wide open when the whistling winds of January tear across the meadows to mirror the ice. Frankie Hyers laughed uproariously through the decades and he thought nothing of sending a "C" to the band-leader to play one more chorus of Ain't Misbehavin'.

A dangerous illness hit him. He was sent to Saranac, where the blankets match the snow. In the darkness after lights out, he could see the thousands of faces contorted in guffaws, but he couldn't hear them in the deadly silence. He might have sat up in bed and roared: "I was a very funny man," but fame died too, and visitors passed his bed by day who never saw him—never heard of him.

The ability to entertain is first psychological, then pathological. You have it for a time, and then it leaves you. Jack Benny doesn't need the money, but he works the couch shows for scale, the stories coming off his suit like lint, the audience waiting for him to lift his brows to say "Well!"

Joe E. Lewis, the most sophisticated, had a slight stroke and he doesn't like to work because he feels that he is less of a man than he was. Milton Berle stages come-backs. Red Skelton plays out the skin working harder and harder to stand still.

Stan Laurel could squeeze tears from his eyes and squeals of fright from his throat. He made millions laugh, but he died in the arms of his wife, the last of his disciples. Lou Costello was still playing the dumb ox when he forgot to rewind his ticker. His partner, Bud Abbott, lived in poverty watching himself perform on other people's television sets.

The genius, Charlie Chaplin, became embittered and took himself and his money from the country which made him famous. Of them all, Bert Lahr alone knew the dark side of the hill before he reached it. He was delighted to do a one-minute commercial chewing a potato chip as millions grinned.

W. C. Fields could be funny on a billboard, but he died drinking, choking on his contempti for the world. Bob Hope has a million dollar delivery system for good writers. Henry Youngman throws a thousand one-liners at a buck a loss. Frank Fay died waiting in The Lambs to be recognized.

Joe E. Brown opened his mouth like a suitcase all his life. It was all he had. George Burns couldn't draw Gracie Allen out of retirement, so he adjusted his cigar and hair piece and croaks jokes. Smith and Dale did Doctor Kronk for 40 years of laughs. Ironically, the same act remained funny until Joe Smith died.

Jay C. Flippen — oh, you don't remember him? Jay was the bit cop in 50 movies. The man with the hard-boiled eyes, Jerry Colonna, couldn't make it without his sponsor, Bob Hope. Fibber McGee and Molly left the scene with a full closet on their hands. Ben Blue still works the lounges at Vegas, but the losers seldom laugh. Joe Penner — I know, he's before your time.

Joe Frisco parlayed a stutter and a case of scotch into a rosary of embittered laughs. He was outsmarted by horses. The Ritz Brothers were funny until they became fearful. The Marx Brothers broke up like in-laws at an all night poker party.

In time, all jesters court tears. Money isn't funny and it cannot replace the full-throated roar of appreciation. "I'm terribly sorry if you failed to insure it and please don't go to the expense of another sweater. I am working at the Newark Airport and feel A. O. K. Frankie." A riot, that Frankie Hyers

Drew Pearson Says

White House No Longer Hub Of Washington Activity

WASHINGTON—Outwardly these are dull days at the White House. Limousines no longer line up inside the South Gate waiting for heads of state or diplomatic missions. No longer do Congressmen stream down Pennsylvania Avenue to watch bill-signing ceremonies or be briefed on the war in Vietnam or the urgency of passing certain legislation.

No longer does the President stand in the East Room between the portraits of Martha and George Washington to swear in new members of his administration.

Even the photographers waiting in the executive office lobby to "shoot" distinguished visitors are listless. There aren't as many visitors any more.

In the rest of the nation, a bitter debate has been swirling as to who shall be the next President of the United States. The incumbent President has sat, most of the time, aloof. He loves politics; no President since Franklin Roosevelt has been such an adroit politician with Congress. But he has been concentrating on the war in Vietnam, a war which has clouded and obscured the great domestic achievements of his administration and which he has been trying desperately to end.

Aside from these surface aspects, however, things have not changed around the White House. There is just as much internal activity as during the climax of the Great Society. The staff never leaves until 8:30 or 9 p.m., sometimes later. Nor does the President. Seldom does he get back to the residence for supper much before ten.

He no longer wakes up at 3 a.m. to call the communications center for reports on the last bombing mission—how many planes lost? Instead his time has been absorbed with diplomatic cables, between Saigon and Washington, Washington and Paris, Hanoi and Moscow, intercepts between Hanoi and China, helpful messages from New Delhi, Bucharest, Warsaw, London and Bonn. Desperately and for weeks he has been trying to get a truce.

"Grandpa" Johnson Concentration on these problems has not interfered with the President's sense of humor or his interest in his grandchildren.

"The truce talks are like a baby's fever," the President told members of his staff. "It goes up to 106 and then down to 98."

"Everything was all tension around here the day before Lynda's baby was born. Lady Bird was supposed to go down to Austin to make a speech for Hubert, yet she wanted to be here. And Luci was supposed to be at the Democratic Women's Club to raise money for Hubert with little Lyn as the star performer. At the same time, Luci wanted to be around with her sister because she had already had a baby and she wanted to tell Lynda how to have one."

"That morning Lyn woke up with a fever," the President told his staff. "It was up to 102. Everybody said that Luci ought not to take Lyn to the Democratic reception. But she said, 'He's one of the performers and can't back down on his act.' So she let him walk cross the stage waving his little flag. He waved it when they told him to, and then he waved goodbye and finally, when the band struck up a tune, he did a little Humphrey dance."

"Then when they got Lyn back home, they found that his fever had gone down to 98.6. There was nothing wrong with him at all. 'Well, that's just like the war. These peace overtures blow hot and they blow cold. You can never tell where they are.'"

The President has substituted workouts with little Lyn for his former walks around the south grounds of the White House with his beagles. Lyn could tire out an Olympic athlete. "I don't know what's in his head," observes his grandfather, "but I know what's in his legs."

By this time the President has become fairly dexterous in balancing babies. There was a time when he didn't quite know how to get the palm of his hand under both his grandson's back and head at the same time. But having practiced on his grandson, he is now quite an expert with his granddaughter.

His daughters usually show him the letters they receive regularly from their husbands in South Vietnam. They are wholesome letters written by busy men. Capt. Chuck Robb has been under fire most of the time, but he minimizes it in his letters to Lynda Bird. She can read between the lines, however, and worries a lot. She was about the happiest woman in Washington when her father made his historic bombing pause announcement.

Pat Nugent, in the Air Force to the south, writes to Luci that he has been hoping to go north and see his Marine Corps brother-in-law. But travel has been difficult.

LBJ Library
The President is looking ahead to the day when he will be in Texas, busy with the Lyndon B. Johnson Library and the school to train Congressmen and city officials that he is establishing at the University of Texas.

"They've got a school to train diplomats at Princeton," he told the Vice President the other day. "Why shouldn't we have a school to train city and county officials and Congressmen? I'm going to get you down there to speak, Hubert," he said. "And I'm not going to pay you anything either. I'm going to get Wayne Morse and some of these other great orators to come down. They charge too much and I'm not going to pay them anything but their expenses. I want 'em to spend some time with the kids on the campus. I'm going to invite Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown and we're going to have free-for-all debates. I'm going to show 'em what free speech really is."

Thus does the President approach his last days, months in the White House. They are days of winding up an era. And the end of an era is never happy, especially when it has been one of the most energetic and most productive and most criticized in history.

Kremlin Knows Our 'Secrets'

The suicide of West German Rear Admiral Hermann Luedke, one of six in a fusillade of shocks affecting our European security, is only the visible cap on the NATO espionage iceberg.

The Soviet, zeroing in on NATO, is scoring much more heavily than we are told against our vital defense positions.

Admiral Luedke, recently the deputy chief of NATO's logistics command, took his life with a hunting rifle in the Eifel Mountains on October 8. Our U.S. intelligence services maintain a liaison with the West German Federal Intelligence Service (BND) at Pflach, Bavaria, in a former Nazi installation near Dachau. Our joint investigation of Luedke's suicide turned up microfilms of nine NATO top-secret documents.

Admiral Luedke, necessarily, held a CTS (Cosmic Top Secret) security clearance. This CTS is a lethal weapon if in the hands of any full-grown, four-square, paid-up traitor.

Suicides likewise have erupted all but simultaneously in the deaths of Maj. Gen. Horst Wendlandt, deputy chief of the BND, itself; Lieut. Col. Johannes Grimm, a Defense Ministry counter-espionage officer; Hans-Heinrich Schenk, an Economics Ministry senior official; Federal Press Office Librarian Edeltraud Grapentin; and an employee of the Defense Ministry, Gerhardt Boehm.

German Communists call an agent Kalgastalt in the Reds' technical jargon for a trained party member who is "on ice" between missions. The suicides led to two highly publicized arrests on October 22 for the bold theft of a U.S. missile and secret navigational equipment from the Neuburg NATO base. Actually, they were Kalgastalt operators.

As another result (unrevealed) our intelligence services now agree that there are, incredibly, in West Berlin alone at least 12,000 Iron Curtain agents.

All, of course, are ultimately controlled—as are the innumerable agents here—by the Kremlin leadership and KGB foreign intelligence chief Liukov. Gen. Aleksandr M. Sakharovsky.

Timely Quote

The highest service the church can at present render the government in this country is to urge it in all seriousness and in God's name to be converted from its ideology of apartheid (racial separation). —Open letter from group of South African churchmen to Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster.

The prize—and priceless—information requires penetration into top-secret circles of decision at the highest policy level. And the Soviet has achieved this against our country, beyond its own direct apparatus, through a wide-open door into the councils of the White House.

The open door is NATO. In Brussels 14 nations have 14 representatives sitting with our NATO Ambassador, J. Harlan Cleveland, and a top-level American military mission. Practically everything we do diplomatically and militarily in Europe, or intend to do, requires us to inform NATO — our decisions and in-decisions alike. We cannot avoid disclosures because our policies and future actions usually depend on NATO cooperation.

NATO concurrence is not easy to obtain. What the Portuguese may approve the Danes may reject. So, we must lay our cards on the table in Brussels.

Thus our highest intentions and immediate capabilities against Russia go from the White House and State Department to Brussels in great secrecy. But there and then the intelligence world flies apart.

Each NATO ambassador refers our information and calculations to his own capital; it goes to his Cabinet, usually to a defense committee or staff and frequently (as in Bonn) to rival and warring parliamentary groups.

In varying degrees all are cut in, and they total about 600 foreign diplomats, politicians and soldiers in the 14 countries sprawling from Oslo to Lisbon and Ankara, Turkey.

America's secrets go through them to the Kremlin like water through a sieve. Accordingly, the Kremlin has a ringside chair at the White House conference table.

The Soviet knows what President Johnson really intends to do about a push against Berlin or Yugoslavia, for example, before many in our own Washington government may know it. The Soviet General Staff knows how many atom bomb sites we have in Europe and their locations; our communications setup (of great importance); how many troops, planes and vessels we can muster; the deployment of our Mediterranean fleet; our logistics tables and actual order of battle if the chips were down. The Kremlin knows exactly what we are urging our allies to do and not to do and to what extent Washington is prepared to appease Russia and where. The Kremlin knows everything — and at once.

These are the deeper facts behind the West German suicides and arrests. Yet our absolutely tragic insecurity affecting our survival, known throughout NATO, is not told to the American people.

Mao's 'Cultural Revolution' Has Set Back Arms Program

Fear Latest Israeli-Arab Flareup May End Hopes for Mediation Mission

By MARK GAYN

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
HONG KONG — In an angry speech made at a secret meeting six months ago, Premier Chou En-Lai revealed that Red China's defense industry was in a bad state, and demanded that something be done about it "promptly."

The meeting was convened to bring an end to the long-standing feud between two rival factions in the "Seventh Ministry" of machine-building, which is in charge of missile making. The bitter exchanges at the session, however, made it clear that the disruption affected other types of weapons as well, and covered such major defense centers as Peking, Shanghai and Manchung.

The disclosures now available confirmed anew the belief of military experts here that Chairman Mao Tse-tung's "cultural revolution" has set the arms program back by as many as two or three years. The meeting addressed by Premier Chou, it is true, took place six months ago, but there has been no sign of radical improvement since.

The experts here anticipate another nuclear test soon. But they also note that China has tried no tests in 10 months, and that the last one, on Christmas Eve, 1967, had apparently been a failure. It would have been a miracle, in the view of specialists here, if the defense industry had escaped the impact of the "cultural revolution." Such essential components of the industry as the famous Seventh Ministry has been wracked by unending feuds among rival factions of Red Guards.

Its minister, a lieutenant general of the air force, has been "dragged out" for "self-examination" and vilified. So have the heads of its key Departments of Defense Research Institutes, and of defense plants.

At the start of the "cultural revolution," in August, 1966, the party's Central Committee issued a decree protecting essential defense scientists and technicians. The injunction was soon disobeyed. Leading figures in the Seventh Ministry have been denounced as "capitalist-readers," idlers, rakes and even homosexuals. Similar treatment has been given to key personnel in the nuclear establishment, with a number of them put on public display with derisive placards on their chests.

Symptomatic of the disruption has been the treatment given to Marshal Nieh Jung-Chen, a vice premier and for the last 10 years head of the Scientific and Technological Commission. He has been accused of opposing "revolutionary masses," of obstructing the "cultural revolution" in the Defense Research Institutes, of supporting discredited leaders, and of following "an erroneous line" in military research.

At the April meeting, Premier Chou also revealed that Marshal Nieh has been under fire because he may have argued that he was beyond reproach. The premier said that only Chairman Mao and his political heir, Marshal Lin Biao, made no mistakes.

Present at the meeting to hear Premier Chou were representatives of the Scientific and Technological Commission for National Defense; various military control committees which act as watchdogs in ministries, research institutes and factories; rival "revolutionary" groups from the Seventh Ministry; and delegations from military schools and armament plants.

Purpose of the meeting was to restore peace between the two main factions in the Seventh Ministry — the "September 15" and "September 16" groups. After violent clashes that lasted through most of 1967, the two factions finally agreed last spring to join hands. But, by April, this agreement was dropped, and the feud was resumed.

Minutes of the meeting — marked "for internal reference only; not for outside circulation" — indicated that the squabble had brought work in many key plants and institutes to a standstill. The document became available here last weekend.

Chou treated the rivals with considerable brusqueness. The defense plant officials, however, were clearly unimpressed. Some of those he denounced defended themselves heatedly. Others ignored Chou's pleas for peace, and jumped up to denounce other or various key defense figures. The premier himself seemed to have devoted a disproportionate amount of time to Marshal Nieh's sin in thinking he was a part of the country's political "core." Chou insisted that only Chairman Mao and Marshal Lin forged the "core."

But, eventually, the premier did get to the main problem: There is now an urgent need to organize groups to handle national defense scientific research, production and teaching.

The minutes of the meeting showed that Premier Chou had settled nothing, and that if anything, the participants left the state council hall with bitterness enhanced. There has been no indication that this bitterness has since yielded to the appeals for harmony.

(Chicago Daily News Service)

UNITED NATIONS — U.N. Diplomats fear the latest Israeli-Arab flareup may smash all hopes that have been placed in the mediation mission of Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring.

His task has been tedious and frustrating all along, said one western diplomat. "And this might blow the whole thing out of the water."

The 15-member Security Council was called into session yesterday evening to hear Israel and the United Arab Republic exchange charges of aggression over incidents that took place Oct. 26 and Oct. 31.

The U.A.R., according to U.N. observers, initiated heavy artillery fire across the Suez Canal Oct. 26, fire which was quickly returned by Israel. Fifteen Israeli soldiers were killed, 34 wounded. Israeli sources said, five Egyptian soldiers were killed, nine wounded. U.A.R. sources said.

The U.A.R. also was accused by Israel of laying mines across the Lebanon-Israel border, a usually quiet frontier.

Israel retaliated Oct. 31 by sending a commando unit more than 100 miles from the canal inside Egyptian territory to the Nile river, where a bridge was damaged and an electric power station set on fire.

Egyptian officials maintain the damage was done by a bombing raid by Israeli aircraft, not by a commando mando

"Israel had no choice but to act, itself, in self-defense," said Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoa. The time has come for peace, he said, only when there is strict observance at all times of the U.N. imposed cease-fire orders.

U.S. Ambassador J. Russell Wiggins, in his first Security Council speech, said the exchange of hostilities had "more serious political implications" than similar serious cease-fire violations in October, 1967, when Israel bombed Egyptian oil refineries in retaliation for the sinking of an Israeli ship by Egyptian planes in the Mediterranean.

He was clearly referring to the already precarious position of Jarring's mission, which some diplomats hope might be making headway during his lengthy stay in New York.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Raid threatened to leave New York earlier this week after the Suez incident, but was persuaded to stay on in hopes that Jarring could continue his mediation efforts.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban is expected to return to New York today to continue the private talks with Jarring.

The exchange of unpleasanties in the public council session, Israel charging U.A.R. with a "weak camouflage" for its military actions, U.A.R. accusing Israel of "new aggression," certainly does not contribute to progress on a private level, observers here note.

It is well known among diplomats here that Jarring has appeared anxious to free himself from the difficulties of mediating what sometimes seems to be a non-negotiable matter.

However, when he moved into larger offices on the 36th floor of U.N. headquarters a few weeks ago, observers felt it was a sign that he had been persuaded to stick it out a bit longer.

De Gaulle Reverts to Old Plan For Anglo-French Nuclear Job

By PAUL GHALI

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

PARIS — President Charles De Gaulle would be willing to ease his terms for Britain's entry into the Common Market if the British government agreed to build Europe's nuclear defenses in close cooperation with France.

This development in the Gaullist line of thinking is reported by two equally well-informed but politically opposed French weeklies, pro-Gaullist L'Express and the anti-Gaullist Satirical Canard Enchaîné (The Shackled Duck), as well as by recent visitors to the French president.

If De Gaulle suddenly agreed to soften his opposition to Britain in exchange for nuclear co-ordination between the two countries, he would only be reverting to an old idea of his that he expressed to the then British Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, at a meeting held at the Chateau de Rambouillet on Dec. 15-16, 1962.

Although the conversations remained confidential, it was widely rumored that De Gaulle had broadly hinted to Macmillan that if Britain loosened her links with NATO and agreed to collaborate with France in the Nuclear field, the obstacles set in her way to the Common Market would be greatly reduced. Instead of taking the hint, however, the British premier joined President Kennedy in the Bahamas for a further strengthening of Britain's ties with the western world's defense community.

At the time, De Gaulle interpreted Macmillan's attitude as the result of strong pressure from President Kennedy and an evident refusal by Washington to let a Franco-British nuclear alliance insert itself into the general framework of the NATO military setup.

There are three reasons today for De Gaulle to revert to his old plan for a combined Anglo-French nuclear buildup. The most obvious is the recent occupation of Czechoslovakia by Warsaw Pact forces and the changes, detrimental to western defenses, that it has brought to the map of Europe.

During his trip to Bonn on Sept. 28-29 and to Turkey from Oct. 25 to 30, De Gaulle has convinced himself that both countries rely solely on the United States for their atomic protection. Hence the French leader feels an intense desire to boost the building of a European "dissuasion strength." To his mind, this nuclear power would be adding to, not replacing, American nuclear defenses.

Well-informed military circles in Paris believe that the general already has discussed the matter of Europe's inadequate nuclear protection with Washington, in particular during recent meetings with the U.S. ambassador in Paris, R. Sargent Shriver. This time he hopes that Washington will not object and will let France go ahead with her plans for more cooperation with Britain in the nuclear field.

De Gaulle's new willingness to seek closer ties with Britain in Europe's defenses also comes from the realization that the continued buildup of French atomic strength to its proposed level needs resources that France's budget alone may not always be able to secure.

The newly voted French military budget still amounts to five and a quarter billion dollars for 1969, an increase of five hundred million dollars over 1968, but it shows a distinct regression over the normal annual rise. The average yearly increase has so far been six or seven per cent. This year it has dropped to 3.48 per cent due to the economic crisis brought on by the May riots.

A third and important reason why De Gaulle may feel that the time has come for him to mollify his attitude toward Britain's entry into the Common Market in exchange for military advantages is the almost overwhelming pressure that France's market partners are bringing to bear in Britain's favor.

This pressure has become especially strong since the Soviets entered Czechoslovakia last Aug. 21.

The latest demonstration of this feeling has come from the "center of action for the United States of Europe," a body with close links with Euromart, which is headed by Frenchman Jean Monnet, commonly known as the "Father of Europe."

Dems Keep Control of Senate, House

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democrats kept control of the Senate today and maintained their grip on the House. Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford conceded that the GOP could not gain command of the 91st Congress.

At a news conference early this morning, Ford predicted the Republicans would score "a net gain of 10, possibly a few more," but nowhere near the 30 seats necessary for Republican control of the House.

"Unfortunately," Ford said, "we've had some disappointments." Democrats controlled the recently concluded House 247-188; they moved toward similar margins in the new House that will convene Jan. 6.

The Republicans had cut down the Democratic margin in the Senate, however. The recent Senate was controlled by Democrats 63-37. The indicated new total was 58-42.

In the House, with only three races still not heard from, the indicated new total was 243-189.

GOP Hopes Fade

Earlier, Ford had predicted a 30-seat net gain, but as the returns rolled in, his hopes of a big Republican gain faded. The GOP last won control of Congress when former President Dwight D. Eisenhower won his big victory in 1952.

GOP candidates won Democratic-held Senate seats in Florida, Arizona, Maryland, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. They led in races for seats held by Democrats in Oregon and Ohio.

Outgoing Gov. Harold Hughes of Iowa was the only Democrat to win a GOP seat, defeating state Sen. David M. Stanley for the seat vacated by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa.

All told, Democrats were ahead early today in the House by a healthy margin. They were elected to 202 seats and were leading for another 41 seats. Republicans had won 154 seats and were leading in another 35.

Goldwater Returns

GOP Senate winners included former Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate in 1964, who easily beat Roy L. Elson, aide to the Senate's retiring dean, Democrat Carl Hayden, 91.

Republican Rep. Richard S. Schweiker ousted veteran Sen. Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania. In Oklahoma, former Republican Gov. Henry Bellmon defeated Democratic Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, who was seeking a fourth term.

Two Senate Democratic critics of the Vietnam War were trailing. Oregon State Rep.

Robert W. Packwood, 36, a Republican, led Sen. Wayne

Morse, D-Ore. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who briefly sought the Democratic presidential nomination, was running

In Florida, Republican Rep. Edward J. Gurney beat former Gov. Leroy Collins, a Democrat, for the Senate seat vacated by the retirement of Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers.

In Maryland, Rep. Charles Mc. Mathias Jr., a moderate Republican, defeated Democratic Sen. Daniel B. Brewster and independent George P. Mahoney. Brewster was seeking a second term.

Kentucky Woman Loses

In Kentucky, county Judge Marlow W. Cook, a Republican, defeated Democrat Katherine Graham Peden, the only woman Senate candidate this year, in a race for the seat held by retiring Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton.

Incumbent winners included Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-

Conn.; Norris Cotton, R-N.H.; Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo.;

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.; and Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., won re-election easily. So did House

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., and House GOP Whip Les Arends, R-Ill.

Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Democrat who was elected twice to the 90th Congress but was "excluded" by his colleagues, swept to an easy victory.

Wallace Ally Wins

Sweeping to expected Senate victories were former Alabama Lt. Gov. James B. Allen, a Democrat and an ally of George C. Wallace; Republican Rep. Robert J. Dole of Kansas; veteran Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C. Allen will replace retiring Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., and Dole won the seat now held by Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kans., who is also retiring.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., easily won re-election over Gerald L. Beasley Jr., a physician and member of the John Birch Society.

REELECTED — Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), Senate Minority Leader, listens to election returns in a Chicago hotel. He won a fourth term by defeating Democrat William G. Clark. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Edge in Congress For State Demos

By JOHN L. CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democrats today retained control of the state's 41-member congressional delegation and will send the nation's first Negro woman to the House next January.

With all but four races decided, Democrats had a 22 to 15 margin.

Mrs. Shirley Chisholm, who also served as New York's first Negro assemblywoman, defeated former national CORE director James Farmer in a newly created district in the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

Former newspaper editor Daniel E. Button, a Republican, defeated Jacob Herzog, the candidate of the Albany County Democratic organization which suffered serious defeats in other local races.

Button cracked the iron control of the county two years ago when he won by 16,000 votes in a reapportioned district that included part of Schenectady County.

New York City Councilman Edward Koch, a Democratic Liberal choice, took the "silk stocking" district once held by Mayor John V. Lindsay. Koch ran on a platform supporting the bombing halt in Vietnam and a continuation of poverty programs.

Richard D. McCarthy, a 1964 Democratic victor in the Johnson landslide, won a third term in Congress from his Erie County district.

Adam Clayton Powell, ousted from Congress last winter on charges of misuse of committee funds, won back his Harlem seat handily.

Democrat Allard K. Lowenstein, a leader in the campaign of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, won a close victory over Republican-Conservative Mason L. Samuel S. Stratton, a popular Democratic winner in a 200-mile Republican submarine-shaped district upstate, will return for his sixth term in office.

Republican James F. Hastings named to run in the place of recently appointed Sen. Charles E. Goodell, easily downed the opposition in a four-way battle. Democrat James M. Hanley beat David V. O'Brien in Syracuse to return for his third term.

The dean of the state's house delegation, Emanuel Celler, a Democrat, will return for a new term in January. He was first elected to the House in 1922.

Republicans Control Both Houses in State

By FRANK H. RICE

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Republicans swept to victories in key state Assembly contests today to win control of both houses of the 1969 legislature after a four year fight.

Upset wins for the GOP came in Democratic strongholds, including the defeat of veteran Democrat Harvey Lifset of Albany, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. Lifset lost to Republican Fred Field.

There was little doubt about the outcome of the state Senate races. Even before the first votes were cast, Republicans appeared certain of victory.

With final returns still incomplete, Republicans upset Democrats in 11 contests, while losing only three Assembly seats themselves. The net GOP gain was eight seats.

Republicans needed only six seats.

The win for Republicans had been in the making for the past four years, after the Goldwater debacle in 1964 saw the Assembly turn Democratic.

The victory was especially sweet for Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea, R-Montauk, who was slated to become speaker. Republican control of the 150-member Assembly also ended the possibility of a bitter fight among Democrats for the post vacated by Anthony J. Travia.

Republicans lost three seats in Manhattan, Bronx, and Albany and part of Schenectady County, while picking up seats in Queens, Brooklyn, Suffolk, Rockland, Orange and part of Rockland, Dutchess, Clinton and Essex; Onondaga and Erie.

Donald Campbell, veteran Republican lost to Mary Ann Krupsak, Democrat, in an upset in the 104th Assembly district.

Another veteran Democrat to fall was Frank Cox of Albany, who was defeated by Raymond Skuse in the 102nd district. In a hotly fought contest, Republican Andrew Ryan, Jr., defeated Democrat incumbent Louis Wolfe in the 108th district of Clinton and Essex Counties.

When the 1969 session is called to order the state, will have a full Republican working team, including the governor.

In former years, with one house Democratic and the other Republican, both parties had widely divergent views on key issues. The political division often spelled defeat for major bills.

In a tight contest in Erie County, Dorothy Rose Democratic incumbent, lost to Republican Ronald Tills, and Dutchess County Democrat Victor Waras dropped a close contest to Republican Emeel S. Betros.

Narcotics Seminar

'Operation Concern' Comes to College on Thursday

"Operation Concern" comes to the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College Thursday night in the form of a Narcotics Seminar. The program has been planned as an educational project for students and public alike; will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 in Room 415 of the John Burroughs Science Building on the local campus.

Film Planned

Featured speaker of the evening will be Benjamin C. Lemon, director of community education centers for the State Narcotics Addiction Control Commission. Lemon will also show a documentary film, entitled "The Seekers," which will focus on youth, their problems, their search—and drugs.

The film concentrates on young people, all former drug users, who talk about their lives before, during and after drugs. Primary focus is on the fundamental question of why youngsters take or become addicted to drugs. The film has been made with an eye to involving the audience so that viewers become participants in a drug dialogue, and the movie is as effective as the discussion, that follows. Hopefully, the audience acquires the same insight as the actors—before drugs.

Well Qualified

Those who have planned the drug education program at UCCC tomorrow night note that Benjamin Lemon is well qualified to conduct the seminar. Prior to becoming Director of Centers for the State Narcotic Community Narcotic Education Commission, he served with the Education Representative at the Narcotic Education Center in New York City.

A graduate of South Carolina State College, his career specialty has been in working with troubled young people. For several years, he was a teacher in the New York City Dept. of Correction, Education Division, on Rikers Island, where many narcotic addicts receive treatment. He has also been a vocational rehabilitation counselor with the New York City Department of Hospitals and was employed for several years as children's supervisor to problem youngsters at Youth House, Inc., in the Bronx.

In recent years he has done graduate study in vocational guidance and social work at South Carolina State College and

New York University; currently directs eight Community Narcotic Education Centers throughout the state and is working on the near future opening of seven additional centers in New York from Lower Manhattan to Rochester.

Since his current appointment, Lemon has been involved in conducting a full-scale education and prevention program against narcotics. In addition to presenting programs such as the seminar at UCCC tomorrow night, with narcotic addicts and their relatives and friends, he and his staff involve them-

Post Office Issues Yule Mail Deadlines

"Mail early and get better service by avoiding the last minute rush," Postmaster Oscar Newkirk advised today.

The Kingston Postmaster issued suggested mailing deadlines for assuring delivery before Christmas Day.

Domestic gift parcels should be mailed before Dec. 2 if they are destined for distant states, and not later than Dec. 14 if destined for local areas.

Greeting cards for distant states should be mailed not later than Dec. 11 and those for local delivery not later than Dec. 16.

Christmas gifts to servicemen stationed in foreign countries should be sent according to these deadlines: Surface Transportation, large parcels, Nov. 9; Space Available, small parcels, Nov. 23; Parcel Air Lift, Nov. 30; Airmail, Dec. 11.

Cards and letter mail will receive approximately the same service as during non-peak periods.

Nearly 27 million pounds of mail were processed by the United States Post Office during the holiday mail rush last year for delivery to members of the armed forces in Vietnam. This year, that number is expected to increase.

Last year all Christmas mail posted before the suggested deadlines was delivered prior to the holiday. To be absolutely sure of on-time delivery, these deadlines should be met, Postmaster Newkirk said.

'Plus' Tests for the Failing Students

By GARVEN HUGHINS
AP Education Writer

Researchers in Warren, Ohio, have developed a new system to help elementary school youngsters grasp subjects in which they may be falling behind. The method, labeled "Personal Learning Unit Systems," or what's wrong, he prescribes a

"Plus," is based on testing cure. Under the Plus method, a youngster—to find out not what they know but what they don't know. "It's like calling a doctor to find out what's wrong when somebody's sick," says Bernard Parker, head of the firm developing the new system. "When a doctor finds out what's wrong, he prescribes a gence of a child in distinguishing and actually seeing a situation," says Parker. In the field of arithmetic, for example, a child may be having trouble figuring out measurements. With the Plus system, a teacher can readily determine where the child's trouble lies. The prescription for remedying the situation is spelled out on a special, transparent sheet for use in arithmetic problems. "It is so easy to follow that teachers can use the system without any special training," says Parker. The system has been given a field test in Warren, Ohio, public schools, among others. Some 1,400 children and 47 teachers were involved in testing the system over the period of a year. The Warren superintendent of schools told a meeting of education specialists in Washington that the system had greatly helped elementary school children catch up in subjects in which they had been lagging.

Reservations for tickets may be made with Moe Schwartz and Sidney Rafalowsky.

Truce Halts Jordan Clashes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Armed clashes between Jordanian troops and Arab commandos in Amman, Jordan ended today on the basis of a truce meeting between King Hussein and four guerrilla groups, Arab commando sources said.

The sources said the commandos had agreed to stay out of Amman, submit to Jordanian government checkpoints and refrain from establishing their own checkpoints. The king conferred with the guerrilla groups Tuesday night, the sources said. Armed clashes broke out Monday between Hussein's loyal troops and Arab guerrillas angry over what they considered the Jordan government's mild stand toward Israel.

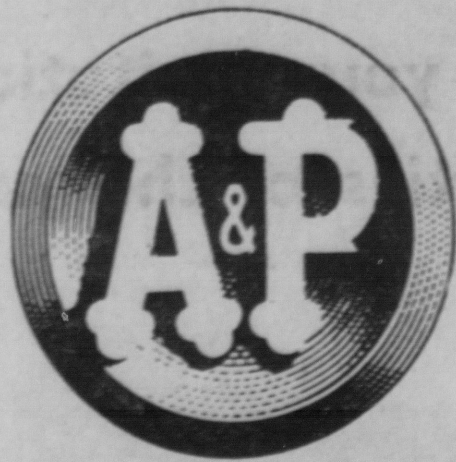

In Amman, UPI correspondent Gerry Loughran reported a return to normalcy in the Jordanian capital. A curfew was relaxed following another outbreak of gunfire Tuesday.

Dying Profession

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Heart transplant pioneer Prof. Christian Barnard told a graduating class of nurses that nursing was a dying profession. Barnard said nurses were becoming little more than "medical clerks" with more and more of the real work being carried out by nurses aides and other assistants. "Nothing helps a doctor more than leaving a patient in the hands of a competent nurse. Not even the most modern medical machinery can replace a good nurse," he commented.

Early man believed that if he drew a likeness of game animals he would possess their souls and thus control them.

Glasco P-TA Organizes

The Glasco School P-TA recently held an organizational meeting with approximately 150 parents and teachers in attendance.

Mrs. Karl Lezette, president of the Glasco branch of the Sargent Central Schools P-TA, presided.

Mrs. Marion Piastro's fifth grade class received a prize for having the most parents at the meeting.

John X. Wartel, president of the Sargent Central Schools P-TA was introduced to the gathering.

Norman W. Bolinder, principal, introduced each member of his professional and non-professional staff and invited teachers and parents to get acquainted during the social hour at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting of the Glasco School P-TA will be held in conjunction with American Education Week on Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Bell's Future...

On Wharton Staff
Bell's previous legislative experience was acquired while he served as a staff member of Congressman J. Ernest Wharton and as research counsel to the Joint Legislative Committee on Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. He was also assistant legislative counsel to the Senate New York City Committee on the Waterfront Commission and was assistant legislative counsel to the New York Bi-Partisan Committee on Off-Track betting.

He has also been president of the Woodstock Republican Club, headed cancer and Boy Scout drives and has been attorney of record for Ulster County and Kingston reapportionment cases. Bell attended St. Joseph's School, Kingston, Woodstock Elementary School and graduated from St. John's Prep, Georgetown University and George Washington University. He and his wife Joy reside in Woodstock with their two children, Bridget, 3, and Kiernan O. Bell, 4.

THE COMPLEXION DIET

Famed beauty experts say the best foods to keep skin young and beautiful are those with a high content of vitamin B1 such as yellow vegetables and fruit—carrots, wax beans, squash, peaches, apricots, etc. Too many starches, as well as tobacco and alcohol, play a large part in producing a dull and lifeless complexion.

PROTECT EYES AT BEACH

To avoid sun-crikles around the eyes it's a good idea to protect that area with a touch of eye cream at the beach.

was a certainty. Rolison commented that his reelection "vindicated" his legislative record. He called the win "sweeping" saying he had gained in many areas of the district. He said there seemed to be little loss of voter backing in any areas he had carried two years ago.

"We want to go over the results for a few days," he added, to get a better idea of any changing trends. "It is hard to tell where the support may have slipped or gained, he said moments after victory was claimed.

The first piece of business he felt Albany would be called to work on would be the New York City school strike.

The Governor is expected to call an unusual session within a few days in an effort to end the crisis that has plagued the city schools since September.

Rolison said the legislature has "got to move" to settle the strike. "The children have been out for more than two months," he said.

Before anything can be done, he said, "both sides—teachers and school officials—have to get together." He noted that more than one million school children were being affected by the strike.

Will Submit Bill

Rolison has come out vigorously for local control of school matters and plans to submit a bill in the 1969 session calling for a non-partisan review board to pass on decrees of State Education Commissioner James E. Allen. He sponsored the bill last year and has said he will submit it again next year.

He has called the issue of local control "one of the major issues" in the district.

Woolley, in contrast, came out against the idea of a review board. The 41-year-old photographer was said by Rolison not to "fully understand the awesome power Commissioner Allen possesses."

Woolley was also attacked by Liberal Party candidate Marvella who called on the Democratic hopeful to withdraw because "He can't possibly win and I can with him out of the race."

Marvella had urged the Dutchess County Democratic committee to drop their support of the photographer and back the Liberal Party nominee.

Together with his wife Barbara, the State Senator kept track of yesterday's results in GOP headquarters in Poughkeepsie. They sat side-by-side in the Hellenic Center on Park Avenue as the favorable returns began to pour in after the 9 p. m. closing of the polls.

Floor to Floor

The 39-year-old law firm partner bounced from floor to floor in the headquarters between reports and was joined for a time by Congressional candidate Hamilton Fish Jr.

After victory seemed solid enough, he said he and his wife would head home and keep tabs on the national race.

Asked if he had been contacted by one or more of his opponents after the polls had closed, Rolison said "No" and added that he did not expect to be called.

"I'm going to go home and get some sleep," said the winner, shortly after midnight. He congratulated the campaign workers who helped in the victory and said that the campaign may have been long and difficult but results were "looking good" and getting better by the minute.

Divers Search

River for Gallo Clues

State police scuba divers today started a search of the Hudson River off East Kingston for possible evidence that might aid in the investigation of the slaying of 23-year-old Robert D. Gallo, Port Ewen barber, two weeks ago.

Trooper Robert McDowell of Troop F headquarters in Middletown, is in charge of the river search, which will continue for the next several days.

Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon, who is in charge of the local investigation of the Gallo case with Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the Kingston substation, said the divers were seeking evidence, especially the victim's shotgun, ammunition belt and wallet which have been missing since Gallo was fatally shot in the head and beaten with a blunt instrument while hunting in an area about a half mile from his home on Sunday, Oct. 20.

The sheriff's department patrol boat was being used by the divers, authorities noted.

Possibly the biggest upset victim among the veteran Democratic senators was A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, who was beaten by Republican former Gov. Henry Bellmon. The Republicans' most stunning defeat was that of Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee.

Another veteran Democratic senator, Wayne Morse of Oregon, was involved in a cliffhanger against a Republican state legislator and the outcome was still in doubt at mid-day.

The new president will not have a clear national mandate. His share of the popular vote is the smallest given any president since Woodrow Wilson won a three-way contest with 41.9 per cent in 1912.

In the popular vote, Nixon and Humphrey ran almost even throughout the night in the count by the National Election Service. But it was a see-saw contest for the electoral votes allotted to the states on a basis of one for each of its members of the House and Senate.

After Nixon had taken an early lead, Humphrey moved ahead by winning such prizes as New York with its largest bloc of electoral votes, 43; Pennsylvania with 29; Michigan with 21; Massachusetts with 14, and then President Johnson's home state of Texas with 25.

Typifying the teeter-totter events of the night was Maryland where Humphrey emerged in front by 19,000 votes when the voting machine tabulation was completed. But there were 35,000 absentee ballots which will not be counted until Thursday, continuing the uncertainty over the state's 10 electoral votes until then.

Except for Texas, Humphrey was shut out in the once solidly Democratic South. Nixon and Wallace each carried five states. Humphrey trailed in third place in Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Humphrey appeared to benefit across the country from mass support in Negro communities. The GOP had hoped to rebound in those areas from its miserable showing of 1964 when Barry M. Goldwater polled only about six per cent of the Negro votes.

For Humphrey, the close race represented an almost incredible comeback for a candidate whose chances were rated near zero after the disastrous Democratic National Convention at Chicago in late August.

He moved up fast in the final days of the campaign—perhaps because of President Johnson's announcement of a bombing halt in Vietnam, perhaps because his party slowly pulled itself back together. Except for Humphrey's home state of Minnesota, Nixon swept the Midwestern farm belt and the mountain states as he did in 1960 when he lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy.

The determination of a winner was slow in coming, partly because of the closeness of the race and partly because of a breakdown in the main computer system used by the News Election Service to tabulate the vote for the news services and the networks.

He had lost this time he would have bowed out of politics, permanently. "I've been in four races in less than three years," he said. "There's more to life than political campaigning."

Dyson said he "expects to be back in two years." "I'll try again, I expect."

Liberal candidate, Peter K. Dufault, was well back in the race with an unofficial tally of about 1,500 votes. The fourth candidate, G. Gordon Liddy, the conservative whom Fish beat in the Republican primary in June, polled an unofficial total of 7,265.

Port Ewen Man Dies In Tugboat Accident

A 24-year-old Port Ewen man was drowned Tuesday when he slipped, hit his head on the side of the boat and fell into the Hudson River near Haverstraw.

John Leiching, a deck hand with New York State Trap Rock Company since his Navy discharge in June, apparently lost his footing as he was helping unhook the tugboat from a pier at approximately 5:05 a. m. According to police reports he hit the back of his head and fell, apparently unconscious, into the murky waters.

Police using grappling hooks recovered the body. An autopsy at Nyack Hospital listed the cause of death as asphyxia by drowning.

Born in Kingston Sept. 24, 1944, he was the son of Clark and Charlotte Ellsworth Leiching of East Main Street, Port Ewen.

A graduate of Kingston High School, he served in the U.S. Navy for five years aboard the USS Wasp. He was discharged in June of this year and was an active member of the Naval Reserve.

Surviving in addition to his parents are a brother, William Leiching; his grandmother, Mrs. Susan Leiching and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral services will be held at the Fair Street Reformed Church Friday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Edwin C. Coon, pastor, will officiate. Friends may call at the F. J. McCardle Funeral Home, 99 Henry Street, today and Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. Arrangements are by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale.

Elsie Rick Dies, Chairman Of Ramsey Firm

Mrs. Elsie Ackermann Ramsey Rick, 77, of 349 Albany Avenue, died Tuesday a Benedictine Hospital after a long illness. Mrs. Rick was chairman of the board of the Charles Ramsey Corporation. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Woman's Guild of the church. Mrs. Rick was a member of Sorosis of Kingston.

She was the daughter of the late Henry and Annalie Euler Ackermann. Mrs. Rick is survived by a sister, Mrs. Irene A. Donnelly of Schenectady; two nieces, Evelyn, wife of Charles Homfeld of Kingston and Evelyn, wife of John Catalano of Ozone Park, L. I. and three nephews, Howard C. Donnelly of Cleveland, Ohio, William R. Donnelly of Honolulu, Hawaii, manager of the Royal Palms and Lester Ackermann of Yonkers.

She was the wife of the late Charles Ramsey, founder of the company. Her second husband, Edward H. Rick died November, 1961.

Funeral services will be held at the Keyser Funeral Service, Kingston Chapel, Albany and Manor Avenues, Friday 10 a. m. The Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, New York City. Friends may call at the Kingston Chapel Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

Nov. 6, 1948 — The Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, which operated during the trolley car era, officially dissolved itself.

The Kingston Teachers Association planned a special program in honor of National Education Week, Nov. 7 to 13.

Two Ontario men escaped serious injury this day when the small plane they were flying flipped over at the Aero Lake Airport.

Nov. 6, 1958 — Philip D. Jones, 48, of Kingston, a well-known former athletic star in Kingston High School, died following a long illness.

Rosendale Village Mayor Catherine O'Leary announced that the community would use the mountain reservoir on Mountain Road for water for the winter months. The move was made for economic reasons, she said.

Hunter Shot In Thigh, Hand

An 18-year-old New Jersey youth was accidentally shot late Tuesday while hunting with two companions near the Kraatz Bungalow Colony at Spring Glen. He was taken to Ellenville Memorial Hospital for treatment.

State Police BCI officers reported Frank Spada, 18, Greg Luty, 19, and Frank Altman, 18, all of Fairlawn, N. J., were in a wooded area. Altman and Spada were walking up a hill when Spada heard a noise. He had his shotgun at hip level and as he turned around his gun accidentally discharged and 75 number 9 pellets hit Altman in the thigh and left hand.

The noise was attributed to a partridge that flew from underbrush near the three youths.

Man Injured

While working on the high voltage underwater electric transmission line in the Hudson River this morning, Raul Oliveria, 39, of Hart Lot, was injured when a long length of pipe fell on him, it was reported. Oliveria was brought to shore aboard a tugboat and rushed to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. He was treated for an injury of the left leg and later released, according to a hospital spokesman. The transmission line project is being carried out by Electrical Constructors, Inc., of Columbus, O., for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

IRS Questions Dr. Spock on Book Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service contends Dr. Benjamin Spock overestimated the value of books and manuscripts he donated to Syracuse University by $15,800, papers on file with the U.S. Tax Court show.

Spock, the baby doctor who recently became famed for his opposition to the military draft, gave a collection of Spock first editions, a library of 368 medical and psychiatric reference books, manuscripts and other memorabilia to Syracuse in 1966.

He claimed a $22,000 charitable deduction on his income tax return. The IRS contends the collection was worth $6,200 and subsequently served the 65-year-old Spock with a deficiency notice claiming he owed $8,870 in additional taxes for the year.

Spock contests the claim and submitted an estimate by a prominent New York auction and appraisal firm, which said the collection was worth $22,000. Spock was sentenced in July to two years in prison and a $5,000 fine for his antidraft activities. He is currently free on $1,000 bail.

TREATING SUNBURN

A bad sunburn requires special treatment. If it has a coating of sand or dirt wash the area carefully with soap and warm water. Then apply sunburn ointment to keep the skin supple. When peeling starts, use a washcloth and soap to gently wash off dead skin. Follow up with ointment, and repeat this routine daily until the burn is completely healed.

TIP ON HAND CREAM

Applying cream to the hands should be done as if you were putting on gloves — rub up toward the elbow. Smooth the cream in as you work it into each finger, over the wrist and up the arm. The same thing happens to the face when you pull tissues downward.

Largest Edge in 14 Years

GOPers Seize 6 Demo Statehouses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans wrested at least six governorships from the Democrats today to roll up the largest statehouse majority for the GOP in 14 years.

Republicans had won 11 gubernatorial races and were leading in 2 others. Democrats had won 7 and led in 1 more.

There were 26 Republicans and 24 Democratic governors before Tuesday's election. It appeared the new lineup would be 31 Republicans and 19 Democrats.

Chafee Big Surprise

Marring the GOP victories was the biggest surprise in the statehouse fights. Gov. John H. Chafee, one of the party's brightest young stars, was defeated in his bid for a fourth term in Rhode Island by Democrat Frank Licht, former superior court judge.

Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., added West Virginia to the GOP list. Moore won a close election over Charleston attorney James Sprouse.

Gov. David F. Cargo narrowly defeated Democrat Fabian Chavez in New Mexico, while in Wisconsin, Republican Gov.

Warren P. Knowles beat Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette.

Loses Under Landslide

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who swept the state, apparently sealed Chafee's fate.

On the other hand, Richard M. Nixon's coattails helped Russell W. Peterson make it a GOP win in Delaware. Peterson defeated Democratic Gov. Charles L. Terry, 68, a popular chief executive still recovering from a heart attack.

The only other Democratic upset was engineered by Montana Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson who defeated incumbent Republican Gov. Tim Babcock.

Besides hanging on to the Arizona, and South Dakota statehouses, Republicans added Vermont, Indiana, New Hampshire and Iowa.

The Democrats maintained control in Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Utah.

In Illinois, Richard B. Ogilvie was leading Democratic Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro.

Whitcomb Wins Indiana

Republican Edgar D. Whit-

comb, former secretary of state, is the new Indiana governor, defeating Democrat Robert L. Rock, the lieutenant governor.

Walter R. Peterson made it a GOP victory in New Hampshire. The former state house speaker beat Emile R. Bussiere.

Washington Gov. Daniel J. Evans easily beat down the Democratic challenge of Atty. Gen. John J. O'Connell.

In Iowa, Republican Robert Ray, as expected, defeated Paul Franzenburg, state treasurer.

Aged Voters Mum on Choices

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — Two voters with 201 years of experience behind them voted early Tuesday but did not reveal their choices.

J. Sinclair Archibald, 101, told newsmen he has missed only one presidential election since he cast his first ballot in 1888, but would not say how he voted Tuesday. He voted in the near-by community of Franklin.

Christian Klindt, a year younger, was equally close-mouthed as he voted in nearby Laurens. He said he has been voting since he immigrated from Denmark at the turn of the century.

Warren E. Hearnes beat St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos. Democratic Lt. Gov. Robert W. Scott was leading Rep. Guy won over Republican Robert P. McCarney. Kansas Gov. Robert Docking defeated Republican Rich Harman, whose reputation was made on the basketball court. Democratic Lt. Gov. Robert James C. Gardner in North Carolina while Republicans also held leads in Arkansas, West Virginia and New Mexico.

Dixie Electoral Battle—Nixon, Wallace Contest

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The battle for electoral votes across the South turned into a contest between GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and third party candidate George C. Wallace.

The Democratic standard-bearer, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, won vote-rich Texas—but this appeared to be the only state of the old Coneracy which Humphrey would carry.

Humphrey seemed on his way to becoming the first Democratic presidential nominee in 100 years to fail to carry a single state in the Deep South.

Wallace, who made his final campaign appeal in Atlanta and said it was "from the soul of the South," carried four Southern states—Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. He was leading in Arkansas.

Nixon carried Florida, Virginia, Tennessee, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Nixon's showing in the South deprived Wallace of the large Southern base of electoral votes he had expected.

At the same time, the Wallace drive seemed to undercut Republican efforts to strengthen their party in the South.

The brightest spot for Southern Republicans striving to build state party organizations was Florida, where Republican Edward J. Gurney defeated former Gov. Leroy Collins to become the first member of his party elected to the U.S. Senate from Florida since Reconstruction.

But many Wallace supporters tended to vote for the former Alabama governor in the presidential race, and then vote for Democratic candidates in other races.

For instance, James Allen of Gadsden, Ala., Wallace's lieutenant governor during the third party candidate's term as governor, easily won election to the U.S. Senate, defeating Republican Perry O. Hooper.

In Georgia, where Wallace polled nearly half the popular vote, Democratic Sen. Herman E. Talmadge won an overwhelming victory over Republican challenger Earl Patton Jr.

A Democratic veteran of 14 years in Congress, Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina—a state where Nixon was leading—won a solid victory over the GOP nominee, Bob Somers.

In South Carolina, a Nixon state, Democratic Sen. Ernest F. Hollings won re-election over his Republican opponent, Marshall J. Parker.

In Arkansas, where Wallace led, Democratic Sen. J. W. Fulbright won in his bid for a fifth term.

Fulbright, 63, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was considered to be facing his stiffest challenge in 24 years from 41-year-old Republican challenger Charles T. Bernard.

Louisiana and Mississippi, both Wallace states, gave comfortable margins to Democratic congressional candidates.

the South was bright in spots.

Two incumbent Republican Congressmen in Alabama were re-elected, as was a GOP Congressman in Georgia, Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, first GOP chief executive in the state since Reconstruction, held a precarious lead.

HEART TRANSPLANT — New York Assemblyman Sidney Lebowitz, 50, who was to have been up for reelection received a new heart from the transplant team of Dr. Denton Cooley in St. Luke's Hospital, Houston. Lebowitz is shown writing letters in his hospital bed. He received the heart of a 15-year-old youth who was injured fatally when his motor-bike collided with a truck. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Too Long in Booth

DETROIT (AP) — A man accused of remaining in a voting booth more than an hour while others waited in line was arrested on a trespassing charge. Police said Albin Wodzinski, 43, was among the first to enter a booth in his precinct, and that after he'd spent 50 minutes at the machine, election workers requested that he hurry. A police officer was summoned and read Wodzinski a state law setting two minutes as the time limit for voting, except when election officials allow more time. He was arrested after he'd spent 50 minutes at the machine.

Humphrey Breezes in State, Captures 43 Electoral Votes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey won New York's 43 electoral votes handily despite heavy Republican gains that tightened the GOP grip on the state government. Humphrey, a definite underdog two weeks ago, showed surprising strength all across the state. He ran far ahead in New York City and cut into the usual Republican votes in such

GOP strongholds as Nassau and Onondaga counties. Richard M. Nixon, the Republican standard bearer, failed to attract the support party leaders had hoped for. And, George C. Wallace, Courage party candidate, ran a poor third. "I am very disappointed in the vote for president," Governor Rockefeller said. He had worked hard for the GOP national ticket. Charles Schoenbeck, Republican state chairman, said Nixon's vote fell far below predictions made by county chairmen. "This was a hard-fought campaign and we expected a bigger vote for Mr. Nixon," Schoenbeck said. On the state level, however, there were many bright spots for the GOP. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, incumbent, was easily re-elected. He ran far ahead of his two opponents, Paul H. O'Dwyer, Democrat, and James L. Buckley, Conservative. "There was never any doubt about Senator Javits' re-election," Schoenbeck said. "He has been a great senator for New York State and he has served the people well." The biggest Republican victories came in contests for the state Assembly. They regained control of the house they lost in the 1964 sweep by President Johnson. "We have elected a majority to the Assembly and I am very happy, indeed," the chairman added. Democrats scored several upsets, too. In the so-called "Silk Stocking" congressional district in New York, Democrat Edward I. Koch beat former state senator, Whitney N. Seymour. The district was once represented by Mayor John V. Lindsay. As a result of the Republican Assembly takeover, the GOP now controls both houses of the legislature. Assemblyman Perry B. Duryea of Suffolk County was re-elected and is expected

Reassurance From the Experts In Strength of U. S. Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the troubles and problems facing this nation, there is reassurance in the projections of experts that enough strength lies inherent in the American economy to make solutions possible. It is altogether another matter as to whether these resources are used constructively. But they are there, the analysts say, and they do offer hope that jobs can be provided, pollution controlled, and inferior education and such can be improved.

Now, following month on month of pre-election examination of all that is wrong with the nation, days in which the defects were so dramatized that the troubles seemed without end, a little healthy indulgence in hope is permissible. To give some idea of how the economic projections sound, listen first to this long-range view from a publication of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce: "Untold wealth will be the rule rather than the exception for tomorrow's families. Families presently earning $8,000 will realize annual paychecks exceeding $25,000 measured in today's dollars by the year 2000. The important phrase is 'measured in today's dollars.' As surely as we have inflation today we'll have it from time to time in the next 30 years or so. Taking inflation into consideration, this $25,000 may be even higher."

It is this reshaping of the pyramid that offers so much hope for the disadvantaged. Each year America's middle bulges more; each year more Americans ascend into the relative affluence of the middle class. This upward mobility is possible primarily because of the energetic growth of the American economy, which now produces about $850 billion worth of goods and services a year, and is growing at better than 4 per cent. The Joint Economic Committee of Congress foresees a possible Gross National Product of $1.3 trillion by 1975 if unemployment can be brought down to 3 per cent from the present rate of a bit more than 3.5 per cent. In a study released early last year called "U.S. Economic Outlook to 1975: Potential and Problems," the committee staff stated that present growth rates would give the federal government revenues of $277 billion a year, or a 122 per cent increase in 10 years. Government revenues would, in fact, rise more than the GNP, the report noted, because more Americans are expected by 1975 to be in the higher income tax brackets.

Fire Destroys Accord Barn; Under Probe

Firemen from the Accord companies under command of Chief Floyd Countryman fought flames Tuesday night that destroyed a large frame barn and storage shed on the Harry Tappan farm in that community. The cause is under investigation.

Volunteer firefighters were dispatched to the farm after an alarm was sounded at about 10:30 p. m. On arrival firemen found one third of the two-story structure burned and the entire building was involved in flames. About 25 volunteers with three men from Rochester Co. 2, who responded with a tanker, fought the blaze and managed to save about one-half of the equipment that was stored in the barn. Water was drawn from a nearby pond and shuttled by tank trucks to the fire area. Fire officials said there were no other buildings in the immediate vicinity. The barn was 30 x 25 feet.

Successful Investing....

Assorted Portfolio Needs Revamping

Q—I have made an assortment of investments—some good, some bad, some terrible—but would like to revamp my list and begin investing $335 a month. I hold Weyerhaeuser Co., John Fluke, Airlift International, Diversa, Inc. and Oregon National Life Insurance.

A—Starting from the top, Weyerhaeuser is the largest of the forest-product companies. A strong recovery after last year's poor results, could lift per-share earnings to $3. Shares should be retained for continued growth.

John Fluke manufactures a line of electronic measurement devices. Earnings for the nine months through June were off on a small drop in volume. Since the company is located in your area you may be "close" to the situation in which case you could hold; otherwise I would sell.

Airlift International could be a rebound stock on a strengthened management team and expanded cargo routes. Hold.

Oregon National, trading under a dollar, operates at a deficit and should be sold.

New investments in Cook Coffee and Miles Laboratories could work out well. Cook—discounter and supermarket chain operator—is in the midst of acquisitions which could up its sales base to $500 million and share earnings to $2.25. Miles as part of an active acquisition program has recently added

SOS from General Foods. Almost a 20 per cent gain was reported in first-half earnings and further progress is anticipated for the year.

Q—I have been using my present broker for some time and found his suggestions good. But he sells me out every time I have a 5-point gain. I see no reason for this. How can I get around it?—D.R.

A—By having a friendly chat with him, stating your investment goals and your objections to selling for small gains. It is up to the investor to make his position clear initially in order to avoid this type of misunderstanding. Meanwhile, build up your knowledge of the stock market so that you will feel qualified to veto unwanted selling advice.

5 Local Servicemen End Basic Training

Five local servicemen have completed basic training, two in the Army, two in the Navy and one in the Marine Corps.

They include Seaman Apprentice David E. Clearwater, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elting Clearwater of 79 Wilson Avenue and husband of the former Linda Sauer of Colonial Gardens. He finished nine weeks of Navy basic training at Great Lakes, Ill.

Also completing Navy basic training at Great Lakes was Saul L. Basch, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Basch of 45 Green Street.

Finishing nine weeks of Army basic training at Fort Polk, La., were John J. Senior, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Senior of Rt. 1, Kingston, and John E. Lynn, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lynn of Young Avenue, Marlboro.

Marine Private John Hunlock, 20, son of Mrs. Etta Handel of Accord, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at Parris Island, S. C.

Joseph Esposito

Joseph Esposito of 17 Crane Street, has graduated from the United States Army Engineer Officer Candidate School at Fort Belvoir, Va., and has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Military Intelligence Corps. The challenging 23-week course is designed to provide the U.S. Army with qualified Military Intelligence platoon leaders. The curriculum includes training in mechanical and technical equipment, topography, and military science and engineering. Emphasis is given to developing leadership capabilities and increasing physical proficiency. Lt. Esposito will now be assigned to the U.S. Army Military Intelligence School, Fort Holabird, Maryland, for further training.

Carl Earnshaw

Airman Carl J. Earnshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Earnshaw of 113 Vineyard Avenue, Highland, has been graduated from a U. S. Air Force technical school at Keesler AFB, Miss. He was trained as an administrative specialist. The airman is a 1967 graduate of Pembroke (N. H.) Academy.

Robert Carr

Sergeant Robert R. Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carr of RFD 1, Stillwater, is on duty at Cam Ranh Bay AB, Vietnam. Sergeant Carr, an airframe repairman, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces. The sergeant, a graduate of Stillwater Central High School, attended State University of New York College of Agriculture and Technical Institute at Cobleskill. His wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McGarry of 277 West Chestnut Street, Kingston.

In the SERVICE

William Bonesteel

Marine Corporal William R. Bonesteel, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonesteel of Route 4, Kingston, was promoted to his present rank while serving with the First Marine Division in Vietnam. His promotion was based on time in service and rank, military appearance, and his knowledge of selected military subjects. As a member of the division he helps capture or destroy enemy forces. During large and small scale operations he is supported by Marine air units, tanks, artillery, amphibian tractors, and engineers.

Larry Haight

Army Private Larry A. Haight, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Haight, 22 Spring Street, Ellenville, completed a wheeled vehicle mechanic course Oct. 18 at Ft. Jackson, S. C. During the eight-week course, he was trained to repair internal combustion engines and wheeled vehicle chassis components. Instruction was given in the fundamentals of electrical and transmission system. Pvt. Haight's wife, Linda, lives in Bloomington.

Raymond Tator

Raymond Tator, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond John Tator of Box 16, Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park, formerly of 71 Greenkill Avenue, enlisted in the Marine Corps. Prior to joining the Marine Corps he graduated from Kingston High School. Private Tator joined the Marine Corps through the 120-Day Delay Program which enables him to postpone his date of departure for recruit training and active duty up to 120 days. He is scheduled to begin his active duty on Jan. 15, 1969.

Paul Tresvik

Paul Tresvik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tresvik of Rifton, was recently promoted to Army Sp/4 after graduating from Army aircraft electrician school in Fort Eustis, Va. He enlisted this March and took basic training at Fort Dix, N. J. He is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and is now stationed at Hunter Army AFB, Savannah, Ga.

Theodore Olson

Captain Theodore E. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Olson of Rt. 1, Kingston, has arrived for duty at Nha Trang AB, Vietnam. Captain Olson, a forward air controller, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces. He previously served with the 45th Tactical Fighter Squadron at Nha Trang AB, Vietnam. A graduate of Saugerties High School, he received his BS degree and was commissioned in 1965 upon graduation from the U. S. Air Force Academy, Colo.

John Kelse Jr.

John W. Kelse Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelse of 22 Ohio Street, Kingston, enlisted in the Air Force last month. He is a 1964 graduate of Kingston High School and graduated from Ulster Community College in 1966, with his AA degree. He enlisted for the administrative field and is at Lackland AFB, Texas, for six weeks of basic training.

John Staccio

John F. Staccio, son of Mrs. Katherine Staccio, 35 Willow Street, Kingston, enlisted in the Air Force last month. He is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and attended Ulster Community College prior to his enlistment. He chose the mechanical aptitude area. He will undergo six weeks of basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Terrence Manwaring

Technical Sergeant Terrence M. Manwaring Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Terrence W. Manwaring, 10 Everett Avenue, Ossining, has received the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Darmstadt, Germany. His wife, Constance, is the daughter of Phillip Cartman of Eddyville.

He is undergoing six weeks of basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Republicans Cop Posts in County

Many Republican candidates for town offices in Ulster County had little difficulty being elected in area-wide sweep of the GOP ticket.

Among towns filling local posts were:

Plattekill — Republican incumbent Councilman Frank Pineiro over Democrat Frank A. Lagattuta 1,052 to 542. Pineiro had been named to fill the unexpired term of George Sisti Jr., who became supervisor last year. Pineiro's assessor position was contested by Republican Ralph Grismer Sr. and Democrat Peter J. Scagnelli. Grismer won, 1,024 to 583.

Hardenburgh — Republican James Todd defeated Josephine Scalza, 98 to 44, for the post of councilman; fellow GOPer Elizabeth Baker outpolled Alice E. Nichols, 107 to 37 for collector.

Hurley — Republican Clarence Jansen polled 1,949 votes and was unopposed in his bid for assessor. He replaces Percy Osterhoudt who retired.

Gardiner — Republican Robert L. Lacouette defeated Democrat James A. Morrissey, 584 to 474, for the position of councilman.

Wawarsing — Republican Karl T. Fleckenstein took the post of Superintendent of Highways by some 500 votes over Democrat Ben H. Davis. Republican Frank M. Spada was seated as Justice of the Peace and ran unopposed.

Police Probe Fire

Kingston detectives were asked by fire officials to investigate the origin of a fire that was discovered in a pile of wood and trash under a platform at the rear of the UPA building on Field Court Tuesday night. Firemen in charge of Capt. Robert Schatzel extinguished the blaze with pressurized water. The cause was listed as incendiary.

Coast Guard Has New Program For Recruits Under Age of 19

Petty Officer William H. Johnson at Coast Guard Recruiting Sub-Station, Newburgh, announces that priority for enlistment in the United States Coast Guard Reserve five month active duty-for-training program will be given to applicants between the ages of 17 to 18½.

Under this program an individual may fulfill his military obligation by serving an initial tour of active duty for training of five months and participating in the ready reserve for the balance of six years. This age priority will be the only exception to the Coast Guard's longstanding policy of enlisting reserve applicants in strict chronological order based on the date of application.

This new policy will not preclude young men who are over eighteen and a half years of age from applying for enlistment in the Coast Guard Reserve. However, they will be given a lower priority for enlistment than younger applicants. For further information please contact Petty Officer William H. Johnson at Coast Guard Recruiting Sub-Station located at the Mid-Valley Mall Shopping Center, Newburgh.

All-Night Election

PARIS (AP) — Munching hot dogs and watching dancing girls, thousands of expatriate Americans and their French friends held an all-night election watch at four throbbing centers in Paris.

Special police squads directed auto and foot traffic as streams of night owls jammed the Hilton Hotel, the Pan American office, a U.S. Embassy annex and Harry's New York Bar to keep up with the returns. The most elaborate election party was at the Hilton, where Radio Station Europe No. 1 laid on a spread of spare ribs and trimmings in a Wild West atmosphere spiced with dancing girls. A papier mache Statue of Liberty was erected outside the hotel.

Walsh Wins Silver Star For Bravery in Viet

WALSH WINS SILVER STAR — Specialist Five Brian Walsh and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Walsh of P. O. Box 511, Woodstock, admire the Silver Star Medal presented to the specialist in ceremonies last week at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point. He was cited for gallantry in action against a hostile force while serving with Company A, 2nd Battalion (Mechanized), 2nd Infantry, 1st Infantry Division, Vietnam. Specialist Walsh braved sniper fire while tending to injured personnel, called for a medical evacuation helicopter, and supervised the loading and evacuation of the casualties. Since his return from Vietnam, he has completed his military service and is presently working as an inspector for the Rotron Manufacturing Company in Woodstock.

21st Marine Ball Saturday Will Commemorate Birthday

Gilbert E. Gray, chairman of the 21st Annual Marine Ball to be held Saturday, Nov. 9 at the Walnut Grove on Field Court, said today that Carman Scott, comedian, will be master of ceremonies again by popular demand.

Scott, who has been headlined at such popular clubs as The Acra Manor, Maple Leaf, Pine Grove House and Norrie Point Inn, was master of ceremonies during a gala floor show at the 20th annual ball in 1967.

In addition to Scott, two additional acts of top flight entertainment will be presented. After the floor show which is slated for 10 p.m., dancing will be held.

Assisting Gray on the committee are, Joseph Sullivan, program journal; Daniel Fochi, ticket chairman, and John Ray Mayone, publicity.

CARMAN SCOTT

Early reservations are urged by the committee, and Gray said that those who have purchased tickets for the event should call any committee member to make reservations for the seating arrangement as a capacity attendance is anticipated. Tickets may be obtained at the door the night of the ball.

The event Saturday night also will commemorate the birthday of the U.S. Marine Corps. A group of patriotic men met 193 years ago at Tun Tavern in Philadelphia to organize a group to serve as "snipers" aboard the ships of the U.S. Fleet. They would attach themselves to the rigging to fire down on the enemy ships. From this group, the U.S. Marine Corps was organized.

Boy Charged With Arson in Broome Fire

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old Susquehanna, Pa., boy was charged with arson Tuesday night in the $300,000 blaze that destroyed the Landers Cosmetics Co. stock on the fifth floor of a downtown Binghamton building.

Police said the fire—which was set and confined to the top floor of the Newell-Truesdell Building—began in mid-afternoon and was brought under control within about three hours.

Kevin Gothany of Susquehanna, about 15 miles south of this Southern Tier City, was arrested and taken to Binghamton City Jail. Arraignment was scheduled for today.

Three firemen were trapped atop the roof of the building but escaped down a stairwell minutes before the roof collapsed. Several other firemen were reported injured but none seriously.

The three-alarm blaze sent clouds of black smoke over the city.

It was the second major fire in the area in three days. An investigation into a $1 million fire at a warehouse-showroom complex in adjacent Johnson City was scheduled to begin today.

King Scholarship

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — A committee of seven students at Colgate University says it will establish a $100,000 scholarship fund for Negro students in tribute to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Colgate said Tuesday the students planned to raise the money through benefit concerts and lectures.

The scholarships are to be awarded annually, beginning next September.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Cub Pack 26 sponsored by the Port Ewen Reformed Church recently combined its monthly meeting with a Halloween party, during which awards were made for the most original, spookiest and funniest costumes worn by the Scouts.

The session opened with a comedy skit by Webelos leader Robert Tremper and Cubmaster Richard Langton. This was followed by costume judging by three members of Troop 26. Winners were: most original, Ronald Olund, first; Gary Langton, second, and Tony Wojcio, third. First, second and third place winners in the spookiest costume judging were, Charles Barnoski, Robert Jordan and Michael Jordan, in that order. Michael Koechel took honors for the funniest scout costume.

Non-scout winners were, Jeanine Shultis, Judy Rushack and Stanley Wojcio, first, second and third. Adult winners in the same order were, Carol Barnes, Robert Tremper and William Barnes.

Den Mother Marilyn Langton of Den 3 opened the pack meeting with a skit entitled, What Makes a Good Scout.

Greg Beadle, Greg Wagman and Russell Shultis were welcomed as Pack 26 members with the traditional Bobcat ceremony.

Other awards presented: Wolf badges to Ricky Spath, Gary Langton and Robert Coisson; Bear badges to Randy Crego and George Jordan; Denner award to Michael Jordan; Assistant Denner to Brian Barnes; Gold arrows to Randy Crego, George Jordan and Marshall Courtney; Engineer pin to Michael Jordan and one-year pins to Michael Bradley and George Jordan.

Webelos induction was held for Mac Courtney. A Webelos graduation was conducted for Curt Bradley and Charles Barnoski with their parents participating. Scoutmaster Harrison Cornish welcomed the boys into Troop 26 with traditional ceremonies.

Den 3 entertained with a humorous skit entitled, The Viper is Coming.

Cubmaster Richard Langton announced that Mrs. Wojcio will take over as mother for Den 4. Tony Wojcio won a special recruiters patch and a committee award of a scout knife for bringing his mother as the new Den mother.

Cubmaster Langton announced the recent candy sale was a success. Ten fathers and 14 mothers and 29 Cubs participated and more than 82 percent of the candy was sold. Cubmaster Langton announced that dues must be paid on time when Cubs miss meetings.

The theme for November is showboat. Den 7 under Den mother Gloria Genther presented the closing and refreshments were served.

It was reported that the Webelos Den under Leader Robert Tremper, assisted by William Barnes recently went to Albany to visit the Capital and other places of interest for a day.

Pack 36

Ghosts, goblins and Halloween capers were present to enchant the Cub Scouts at a recent meeting of St. Mary of the Snow Pack 36, which was attended by parents.

The opening ceremony was a skit performed by Den II comprising Kevin Curl, Kirk Barnes, James Juliano, Gary Mason, Christopher Sweek. They were led by Den Mother Ginger Curl, assisted by Rose Juliano.

The cubmaster presented to the boys earned badges including arrow points and activity badges.

Other awards were: Wolf Badge to Joseph Scala, Chris Popf, Michael Voerg, Chris Sweek, Bear Badges to Patrick Caffery and Ray Christiana. One Gold Arrow and two Silver Arrows went to each boy. Michael Decker received a Bear badge and an Aquanaut badge.

A Webelos award went to Arthur DeCelle; Activity badges were presented. Frank Rea received badges of geologist, aquanaut, outdoorsman and traveler; Frank Beckert received the aquanaut and sportsman badges; Kevin Carpenter was awarded badges for aquanaut, sportsman and athlete.

A special award, Scouting Rounds a Guy Out, went to Thomas Fitzpatrick, Richard Ryan and Christopher Sweek.

A haunted house with the Ghost of Frankenstein and his remains at the address of Frank Caffery, Main Street, was a chiller to all who ventured through it. A costume parade around an open fire and songs by the group were other features.

The Cub Scouts were reminded of a trip to the firehouse in Hudson on Sunday, Nov. 10. Show Boat is the theme for Sunday night, Nov. 24 in St. Mary's Hall at 6:30 p.m.

Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served to all by Den 4 mothers, Mrs. Arthur DeCelle, Mrs. Eunice Smith, Mrs. Charles Liverpool and Mrs. Andrew Jasienowski.

'Prayer Drain'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A "prayer drain" of ordained clergymen who leave their pulpits for secular jobs, has been reported here. "My brethren are too willing to accept work outside the church," the Rev. N.J.H. van Loggerenberg of the Gereformeerde Kerk told a synod.

IN ANTICIPATION—Giant crane was moved into position on Island Dock late last week in anticipation of the proposed junk car compaction facility which gained Ulster County Planning Board approval. The planning body approved application of the Marine Salvage Company, Elizabeth, N. J., for operation of the compaction plant with four recommendations for consideration by the Kingston Zoning Board of Appeals. The zoning unit will review the application following a public hearing Tuesday 7:30 p. m. in city court at city hall. The facility could ultimately eliminate unsightly abandoned junk cars from Ulster County.

The proposed use of the site is temporary, possibly for only three to five years and would therefore not conflict with long range plans for the area, Herbert Hekler, director of the county planning board noted at the time the proposal was considered. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

RPI Boosts Tuition

TROY, N.Y. (UPI)—Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute announced an increase of $125 per semester in tuition fees Tuesday.

Buckley Makes 'Victory Speech'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Conservative candidate James L. Buckley made a "victory speech" after finishing third behind Jacob Javits and Paul O'Dwyer in the New York senatorial race today.

"I've come here to make our victory statement," the 45-year-old Buckley told a cheering crowd of about 300 in his headquarters in the Belmont Plaza Hotel.

"I am speaking to you not as a candidate but as a spokesman for the movement you believe in," he said, adding that the Conservative party proved itself in the election as "a force which will be reckoned with."

from now on in New York politics," Buckley made his statement after hearing news projections that the six-year-old Conservative party could draw as many as 1.2 million votes.

"In 26 years the Liberal party never drew better than 520,000 votes despite its organizational strength, money and all those labor people," said Buckley, brother of columnist-publisher William F. Buckley Jr.

The 6-foot 170-pound lawyer, a vice president and general manager of the Catawba Corp., also blamed Governor Rockefeller for possibly causing Richard Nixon to lose New York State which will be reckoned with to Hubert Humphrey.

"If Mr. Humphrey wins the state by less than one quarter million popular votes, Mr. Rockefeller must bear the responsibility for the failure of his party," Buckley said.

Buckley said it was "personal petulance and a petty grudge" when the state GOP organization refused to allow Conservative endorsement for Nixon.

1,737 Students Are Enrolled at Ulster County

A total of 1,737 students are enrolled for classes this fall at Ulster County Community College, according to a report President George B. Erbstein has given the College's Board of Trustees. This is a 16.2 per cent increase over last fall's enrollment.

The enrollment includes 952 full-time students and 785 part-time students.

The 952 full-time students reflect an increase of 17.5 per cent over last fall's full-time enrollment, and this is the largest per cent of increase the college has had in its history.

The 785 part-time enrollment is a 14.8 per cent increase over last fall, and also reflects the largest increase the college has had in this area in its history.

The part-time enrollment includes students enrolled in 23 evening extension classes the college is offering in Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock and Ellenville.

Of the college's full-time enrollment, 63 per cent are males and 37 per cent are women. Seventy-six per cent of the students come from Ulster County, while 10.3 per cent come from Dutchess, Sullivan, Columbia, Greene and Orange Counties.

President Erbstein reported that the college this fall has a full-time faculty of 64 members, an increase of 14 new faculty members.

The college also added a counselor to set up developmental study programs and an assistant librarian. No new administrative positions were filled for the 1968-69 academic year. Two persons were named to fill the administrative staff to fill vacancies caused by resignations.

They are Eugene L. Turgeon, who has been appointed registrar, and Mrs. Irma E. Gray, who has been named assistant to the president for institutional research, federal legislation and planning.

Turgeon, a native of Massachusetts, earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Massachusetts, majoring in business administration. He received a commission in the U.S. Navy at Officer Candidate School, Newport, R. I., and served as the gunnery officer aboard a destroyer escort in the Atlantic Fleet.

In 1959 he joined Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., and served as a claims adjuster in Springfield and Pittsfield until 1966, when he became vice president of Shire City Insurance Agency in Pittsfield.

Before joining the staff at Gray was assistant regional director for the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center in New Paltz. She remains project director for the Talented Art Program operated by Ulster County BOCES.

Previously, she was special assistant to the deputy director of the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D. C., and served in Washington as a staff aide for Senator Joseph S. Clark.

Post 150 Event Shifted

The get-together of 50-year members of Kingston Post 150, American Legion scheduled Veterans Day, Nov. 11, will be held at the VFW Hall, 552 Delaware Avenue due to the fire which damaged the Legion Hall early Saturday.

Arrangements for the change were made by Donald Genter, VFW commander; Everett Emmick, Legion commander, and Thomas Bohan, chairman of the 50th anniversary event.

The Legion anniversary celebration started with a recent recognition dinner honoring more than 100 charter members. The get-together event will continue this program on Nov. 11. As the dinner program was too lengthy to permit a review of the accomplishments of the Legion Post, this will be completed at the special event at 7:30 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

Chairman Bohan said 103 are eligible to participate, however about 80 are expected to attend. Co-chairmen of the event are Conrad J. Heiselman, a former Kingston mayor; William Hanley, Clarence Hyde and Joseph J. Kelly, former city editor of The Freeman.

The program will include a piano presentation by Harry Maisenhelder, who will play songs of World War I.

Those planning to attend should notify Chairman Bohan, or any member of the committee.

Local Holland Society Sets Fall Meeting

Members and guests of the Ulster County Branch of the Holland Society of New York will hold their annual fall meeting at Lake Minnewaska Saturday. The reception will begin at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Invitations went out to the members three weeks ago and they are urged to notify Richard Lent, treasurer, if they intend to come. Reservations must be made in advance.

Harry Rigby, Kingston Historian, will be the speaker. His subject will be Kingston and the Hudson Valley under the Dutch.

The meeting will be presided over by the newly elected president, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck. Officers of the parents society in New York will be present as well as guests from the Dutchess County and other branches.

A Woman and Her Laundry-- Spy Link for Laos and U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Southern Laos, a woman hangs her laundry out to dry. It is not just by coincidence that the day also is peaceful, and that no American or Laotian bombs are raining down on one of the nearby branches of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The woman is part of a spy network which helps the Laotian government of Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma and the United States keep tabs on the movement of enemy men and supplies along the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos into South Vietnam.

Within minutes of the time she takes her washing in, the bombs will be falling. It means there is enemy movement along the trail.

As U.S. fighter-bomber and naval forces redeploy in accordance with President Johnson's order halting the bombing of the North, the Ho Chi Minh Trail will come under increasingly heavy attack.

It is one of the peculiarities of this war that, while the United States demand that North Vietnam cease its violations of the Demilitarized Zone dividing North and South, no mention can be made of the 200-mile trail which siphons more than half of the enemy's reinforcements and supplies into the South.

The terms of the neutrality of Laos ban the presence of foreign troops. The North Vietnamese never have admitted either the presence of some 35,000 troops there or the existence of the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The United States never had admitted that its "armed reconnaissance" flights over Laos actually are bombing missions or that American pilots sometimes fly Laotian aircraft bearing the markings of the three-headed elephant. Nor are commando-type forays across the Laotian border by South Vietnamese or American Special Forces units led by Nung tribesmen ever officially discussed although they are an open secret.

Supplementing manned armed reconnaissance in the air will be low-flying drones, watching not only the trail but the whole of North Vietnam. Ground activities will be assisted by highly secret electronic devices.

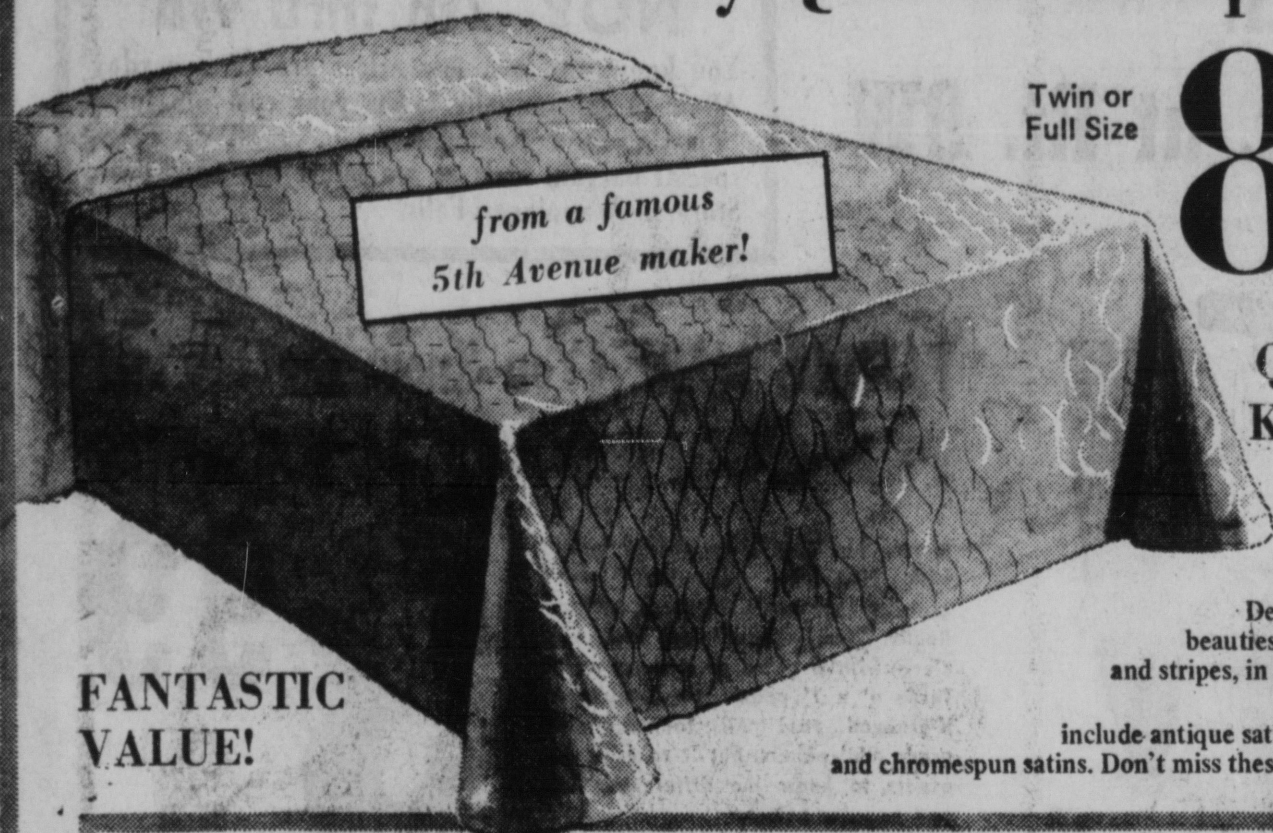

When President Johnson ordered the bombing halt in the hope it would open the way to meaningful peace talks, he did so in the knowledge that "there may well be hard fighting ahead."

Health for All

OBESITY: IS THE DIET-ING DYING OUT?

Has dieting had its day? Are curtains in the offing for all those Summer Slimdown Seminars, One Day Wonder Diets, and Five-Minute Fasts for Fat Folks that were guaranteed to retread the American silhouette into something more eye-pleasing?

The answer to that somber question tends toward the affirmative as science amasses more data on the causes and correctional possibilities of the great American malady known as overweight.

Late dispatches from the human inflation front include a report in Science Weekly by a forward patrol of investigators led by Dr. Stanley Schachter, a Columbia University psychologist.

Dr. Schachter and his colleagues express grave doubt that dieting can do the job. For a while, perhaps; for the long pull, no. The regularity with which slenderized persons regain their poundage suggests to them that the problem of obesity isn't physical, but mainly psychological.

Overeating, Dr. Schachter maintains, isn't caused by inner hunger but by outside stimuli. The stimuli are various; they could be strong emotions or the ravishing aroma of fresh-baked apple pie or a glimpse of the promising portals of a pizza palace. Such hazards can make good diet resolves vanish like pizza and apple pie.

Study of a group of obese people has shown that they can be more indifferent to food than persons of normal weight in normal situations. It isn't overeating at meals that does the damage; it's responding to those outer stimuli.

Can an obese person change from an outer-motivated to an inner-directed eater? Therein lies the only hope, according to the investigators. Yet they doubt whether such a change is possible. Meanwhile, as they continue to explore, dieting remains the best available answer to the obesity problem.

(This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc., 124 Green Street.)

Ulster Library Lists Volumes

Adult Non-Fiction

Here and Hereafter, Ruth Montgomery; The Biological Time Bomb, Gordon R. Taylor; The History of Germany Since 1789, Golo Mann; Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue for 1968; The Generous Years, Chet Huntley; The American Literary Anthology; G and H, the Investigators; Yet they doubt whether such a change is possible. Meanwhile, as they continue to explore, dieting remains the best available answer to the obesity problem.

Also, John Fitzgerald Kennedy as We Remember Him, a Columbia Records Legacy Collection Book; The Beatles, Hunter Davies; The Greatest Treason, Laurence Thompson; Henry 8th, J. A. Scurisbrick; McCarthy, Roy Can.

The library has added Picturesque Ulster to the reference section for use at the library. It is about the City of Kingston, Townships of Denning, Hardenburgh, Hurley, Olive, the New York State School Village of Saugerties. The book contains more than 1,000 original illustrations from 1896 to 1965, all taken in areas mentioned.

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County from 1961 to 1965 are available in the reference section also.

Highland Board

Highland School Board members have just returned from Syracuse, according to Donald C. Baines, supervising principal, where they attended the 49th annual convention of the New York State School Boards Association.

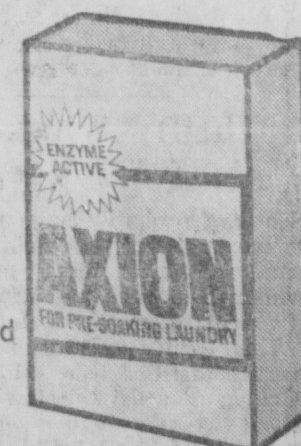

Those who attended from the local board were John Elia, Donald Halstead, and Gies Russell.

John Elia, president, was the official delegate at the business session which was held Monday of the convention.

"It removed a stain I thought could not be removed."

The turkey dinner served at the lodge hall last week was reported a great success.

Thrifty Whiskey

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The whisky makers of Scotland probably have nothing to worry about, but South African whisky, a blend of malt whisky and cane and wine spirits, costs much less than Scotch. This thrifty note was struck by the distiller who said South African whisky introduced about two years ago is selling so well that a new plant is planned for Rhodesia.

DuBois Family Marks Purchase Of Paltz Home

More than 85 members of the DuBois Family Association celebrated purchase of the family homestead, The Old Fort, on Huguenot Street, New Paltz, at the third annual luncheon meeting recently.

Necessary funds for the purchase were raised this year after a drive which started in 1967. The Old Fort will continue to be operated as a restaurant with a DuBois memorial room or rooms.

Harry DuBois Frey, chairman of the house and grounds committee reported on repairs to the building and noted that further work will be undertaken in 1969.

Bridge Club Lists Winners

Max Lawrence and Dr. Murray J. Fletcher of Kingston scored a 64 per cent game to lead the competition in the fractional-point game played Oct. 31 at the Jewish Community Center's Duplicate Bridge Club. A total of 24 boards were in play in the Mitchell movement.

The winners led the East-West players; second were Herbert Gertner and Dr. Victor Randel with 58 per cent. Al Rose and Ephraim Schafer placed third with a 53 per cent game.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yallum won on the North-South side with a 56 per cent game. Stan King and Roy Wulff were second with 55 per cent, while Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peck of Woodland placed third with 54 per cent.

The Center has set a fractional-point game for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the JCC, 98 Maiden Lane. All bridge players may attend. Pairings will be arranged. A special event game with full master point awards will be conducted on Nov. 14.

The Center's novice game for players with less than 20 master points began this week under the direction of Mrs. Andrew Dykes. The next novice game will be on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the center.

The first class in the beginner's refresher course will be conducted Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the center. Mrs. Dykes as instructor. All persons interested may participate. The Goren system will be taught. Further information may be obtained by calling the center.

Amateur Radio Classes Slated

An introduction to amateur radio will be the topic of weekly classes starting Wednesday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. in Room 414 of the Kingston High School vocational building.

The announcement was made by Robert Clemmons, president of the Overlook Radio Society. The classes are scheduled to begin with basic electronic theory, amateur radio law, and international Morse code.

All those interested are invited to attend.

Nixon's Big Step: Night of March 12

NEW YORK (AP)—Sitting in his New York apartment a few months ago, relaxed and waiting, Richard M. Nixon seemed slightly bemused to find himself once again in the race for the Presidency.

He put his feet on a coffee table and said to a visitor: "You know, nobody would have dreamed a year ago that you and I would be sitting here on March 12 with the situation 's it is today. Who would have predicted that in 1964? Who would have predicted it, as a matter of fact, in 1960?"

March 12 was the date of the New Hampshire presidential primary. By nightfall, Nixon knew he had won an impressive victory. And although a long and dangerous road lay ahead, he also knew he had taken his first step in his second try for the presidency.

Also Liabilities

If his political expertise gave him certain advantages, he was carrying serious political liabilities as well.

There was the "loser" label, pinned on him after his defeats in 1960 and 1962.

There was the period of comparative obscurity.

And finally, having moved from his native California to New York he was operating without a power base, without a strong and well-heeled state organization to support him.

In a word, Nixon was attempting a feat without precedent in American political history.

When he started his drive, Nixon had just passed his 55th birthday. He was practicing law in New York, earning substantial sums of money, enjoying life with his family, his wife Pat and their daughters, Julie and Erica.

Nixon has been in politics, or on the fringes, since 1946.

The GOP chiefs quietly looked into Nixon's record. This is what they found:

The Record

He was born Feb. 9, 1913, in Yorba Linda, a tiny community not far from Whittier. His father was a small businessman. As a schoolboy, Nixon worked as a ranch hand, picking beans. He held jobs as a janitor in a school, a sweeper in a packing house and an attendant in a gasoline station.

He liked sports and he tried, persistently but without success, for a place on the Whittier College football team. "Dick had two left feet," a classmate recalled, "but he never stopped trying."

When he graduated from college, the Harvard Club of California awarded him its prize as the outstanding student of his class.

He then applied for a scholarship at the Duke University Law School. Dr. Dexter, supporting the application, wrote that he expected Nixon to become "one of America's important leaders."

During the three years at Duke, Nixon was elected president of the university's bar association and was taken into a national scholastic fraternity for honor students at law.

He then returned to Whittier and entered a law firm.

Along with his practice, Nixon engaged in numerous civic activities and it was one of these interests that led him to attend tryouts for a Little Theater play.

There he met a pretty blonde named Thelma Ryan. She told him her father, a miner, had nicknamed her "Pat," that she came from Ely, Nev., and had been teaching school in Whittier for several months.

A little more than a year later, June 21, 1940, they were married.

When the Pacific war broke out, Nixon joined the Navy as a lieutenant. He served in the South Pacific Air Transport Command.

The California Republicans offered him the nomination for Congress in 1946.

None Too Hopeful

Nixon's first fight looked none too hopeful in the beginning.

The 12th District was mainly Republican. But for years it had been sending to Congress a Democrat, Jerry Voorhis. Obviously he was popular with both Republicans and Democrats.

One of the ironies of Nixon's career is that the political debate helped him win in 1946, whereas in 1960 it was a major factor in his defeat. He debated Voorhis five times, and he said later, "Once the first debate was over, I was on my way to eventual victory."

Voorhis later described him as "quite a ruthless opponent."

Nixon retorted, "Our campaign was a very honest debate on the issues."

He was nominated by both parties for a second term in 1948. At the end of it, he decided to run for the Senate. He defeated the former actress, Helen Gahagan Douglas, by 680,000 votes, 59.2 per cent of the total. Again, he was accused of unfair campaign tactics.

Nixon quickly became a controversial figure in Washington. He played a leading part in the investigation of Alger Hiss, a former State Department officer, by the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1948. Hiss was convicted of perjury and served a term in prison.

Helped Draft T-H

Nixon helped draft the Taft-Hartley law which President Truman opposed. The law was passed over Truman's veto.

Next, Nixon plunged into the controversy that erupted when Truman stripped Gen. Douglas MacArthur of his Far Eastern commands in 1951. Nixon sponsored a resolution of confidence in MacArthur.

He had been in Washington only six years when he was suddenly catapulted into national politics. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower became the GOP nominee for President in 1952. He asked the delegates to the national convention to nominate Nixon for vice president by acclamation. They did.

Second Youngest V-P

Nixon, at 39, became the second youngest vice president in history. John C. Breckinridge was 35 when he was elected as James Buchanan's vice president.

But before the election, Nixon found himself making unwelcome headlines when the so-called "Nixon Fund" was disclosed. A group of California businessmen contributed $18,000 to the fund. Nixon was to use it as he pleased. In the furor, some GOP leaders urged that Nixon be dropped from the ticket.

Defending himself, Nixon delivered on television what is still known as his "Checkers Speech" because of a reference to his cocker spaniel. He reported the findings of an audit and said, "Not one penny of the $18,000 or any other money of that type ever went for my personal use."

The speech kept Nixon on the ticket.

Eisenhower made greater use of his vice president than any other previous chief executive. He sent Nixon as his emissary to 56 countries. In Caracas, Venezuela, a mob smashed the windows of his car, endangering his life. In Moscow, he took on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in the famous "Kitchen Debate," arguing ideology in a model of an American kitchen at an exhibit in 1959.

But nothing so enhanced Nixon's prestige as the way he handled himself after Eisenhower was stricken by a heart attack on Sept. 25, 1955. Nixon said later:

"What I thought of . . . was not the awesome problems I would have if I should become president, but how I could best handle my immediate responsibility as vice president."

Then came 1960.

Few Americans will ever forget that campaign, Nixon's TV debates with John F. Kennedy, the neck-and-neck race down to the last hour, and the final result—Kennedy winning by one tenth of one per cent, the closest national election in 76 years.

Nixon returned to California and in 1962 he ran for governor. The incumbent, Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, defeated him by 297,758 votes.

Exhausted by the hard campaign and shocked by the defeat, Nixon appeared before about 100 reporters and the TV cameras after the election and said, bitterly, "You won't have Nixon to kick around any longer because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

This appeared to end, irrevocably, Nixon's career. Numerous commentators wrote his political obituary.

Earned Gratitude

But five years later, Nixon was very much in the presidential picture again. Two Associated Press surveys in 1967 showed he was a runaway choice of GOP leaders to be the nominee in 1968. There was no mystery as to how he reached that position.

He had earned a tremendous amount of gratitude between 1964 and 1966 by campaigning tirelessly for Republican candidates for the House, the Senate and for governorships.

PRESIDENT-ELECT NIXON AND V-P AGNEW (UPI) TELEPHOTO

The Prosperous Agnew Family Also Knew Many Hard Times

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Spiro Theodore Agnew, vice president-elect of the United States, is the son of a Greek immigrant who shortened the family name from Anagnostopoulos and a Virginia-born mother who, as the Maryland governor likes to recall, "never let us forget her heritage."

The Baltimore city native who rose from helping his father hawk vegetables on the city streets to become the fifth Republican governor in the history of Maryland, saw affluence, depression and mediocrity before he launched his meteoric political career.

Agnew, who celebrates his 49th birthday just four days after his election, was born into prosperity.

His father was a successful restaurateur and leader in the Greek community who lived in a fashionable suburb of Baltimore.

During Agnew's early years, the family was never wanting and his only complaint was his sensitivity about his Greek heritage when neighborhood children referred to him "as that Greek up the street."

As he grew older, however, his sensitivity changed to pride in his Greek extraction, and he likes to recall that he refused to permit his campaign managers to drop his surname of "Spiro" and bill him under his nickname of "Ted" when he ran for executive of Baltimore county in 1962.

But despite his ethnic background, he was raised in the Episcopal Church and cannot speak a word of Greek.

With the depression came financial ruin for the Agnew family. The senior Agnew lost his restaurant, sold the family home for more meager quarters and the future vice president was pressed into service after school to help his father sell vegetables.

"My father used to have to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning so he could be at the wholesale market when the farmers brought in their produce," Agnew says.

"Those were not easy times and I sometimes wonder how my mother managed."

Leaycraft Winner In Woodstock Vote

Edgar C. Leaycraft, Woodstock's new Democratic town justice won his post yesterday town and lost a fourth (a Republican publican stronghold) by only five votes.

An unofficial count shows district voting as follows: District 1, Forno 290, Leaycraft 346; District 2, Forno 386, Leaycraft 381; District 3, Forno 294, Leaycraft, 400; District 4, Forno 237, Leaycraft, 272.

Forno, a former, as well as present Justice of the Peace, served on the town board for a number of years. He was appointed to his present post and nominated at his party's candidate at a GOP caucus in September.

Leaycraft, a Harvard graduate, is employed by the IBM Development Laboratory of Poughkeepsie. Historian of the town since 1962, he also serves as secretary of the Woodstock Memorial Society, is a member of the Woodstock Association, Metcalf, R. Auburn, 115,911-47, Ulster County Historical Society and Woodstock Artists Association.

Rep. Stratton In Biggest Win

The tally had Stratton in front of former state Sen. George Metcalf, R-Auburn, 115,911-47, Liberal candidate William L. Griffen polled 1,879 votes.

KHS Teachers Take Part in Language Meet

The Language Department of Kingston High School was strongly represented at the annual meeting of the New York State Federation of Foreign Language Teachers at the Concord Hotel recently.

Miss Kathryn Fellows, department head, was accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Barnard, Mrs. Ana Rodgers, Mrs. Dorothy Thiel, Miss Mildred Kirshenblum, Miss Faye Napolitano and Miss Nancy Mott. Miss Fellows was chosen to serve on the Regents' Revision Committee, the group which evaluates the annual state examinations.

Dr. Walter Crewson, associate commissioner of education, addressed the group on the need for more emphasis on the humanities' approach to language. Various panels stressed the importance of cultural understanding in the modern language program, as well as giving demonstrations in the latest teaching techniques.

Teeners Severely Hurt In City Cycle Mishap

A 19-year-old youth and a 15-year-old girl were severely injured shortly before 8:25 p. m. Tuesday when the motorcycle on which they were riding went out of control and crashed into guard rails on Wilbur Avenue near West O'Reilly Street, according to Kingston police.

Francis A. Turk, of Ulster Park, operator of the 1966 vehicle, suffered a broken right clavicle, fractured leg, internal injuries and abrasions and contusions. A passenger, Donna Walker, of 87 North Broadway, Port Ewen, sustained an open fracture of the tibia and fibula, compound fracture of the ankle and internal injuries, police reports noted.

Both were rushed to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. Turk was listed in satisfactory condition this morning, and Miss Walker's condition was described as serious.

Jammed Machine

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The 21-year-old, first-time voter was nearly in tears.

She was the first one in line to vote, and before she had completed flipping the switches something happened. The machine jammed.

"I think I broke it," the young woman told the Election Board members.

Diamond Cops Justice Post In Marbletown

Robert S. Diamond, appointed by the GOP to the post of town justice, Town of Marbletown last July, was elected to the office in an uncontested election yesterday.

Diamond's total of 1,142 votes came from five districts as follows: High Falls, 248; Lamontville, 145; Stone Ridge 334; Krippelbush, 243 and new district 5, 172.

The Stone Ridge school teacher's July appointment as justice came following the retirement of Republican Justice Harry C. Scarpatti.

Wedding Bowl

is our engagement gift to you with our very best wishes for a life of health, happiness and prosperity. Legend has it that the original wedding bowl was placed before the bride and groom and the wedding guests filed past while filling it with money. We, of course have lost track of this colorful custom but the wedding bowl persists as a unique entity . . . only now, it is given as a centerpiece and treasured as a memento. Our true replica of a Colonial antique is yours without any obligation. Just come in and get yours; it's gift-wrapped and ready. We are in the romantic business of making homes and it is our continuing pleasure to place at least one piece of our homelife in every new home. We would be delighted to give you yours!

MRS. CHARLES COLOMELLO JR.
(Lakeside Studio)

Vows Are Taken In St. Joseph's

Miss Lynn Marie Freundorfer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Freundorfer of 99 Norma Court, Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with Charles Colomello Jr., son of Mrs. Charles Colomello Sr. of Merritt Avenue, Millbrook, and the late Charles Colomello Sr., on Saturday, Nov. 2, at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. James Halligan of St. Raymond's Church, Bronx, officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied Donald Sweeney who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of palms decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza and Alencon lace in traditional style with a scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant skirt which swept back into a chapel length train. Her silk illusion headpiece of seed pearls and aurora crystals. She carried a sunburst cascade of Georgiana orchids, stephanotis, ivy and dracena foliage.

Miss Marjorie Candello of Kingston was maid of honor. She wore an apple green gown of ransu with an Empire waist which was encircled with floral braid. A matching Dior bow held her tulle flirtation veil and she carried a long narrow cascade of yellow spider chrysanthemums, honey and rust pommoms and croton and ivy foliage.

Attendants were Mrs. Anthony

Carpino of Saugerties and Mrs. Frank Zedar of Endicott. Their two-tone gowns with avocado bodices and apple green skirts were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried similar bouquets of spider chrysanthemums.

Miss Suzanne Aiena, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore an avocado green gown styled similarly to those of the other attendants with a matching ring type headpiece and carried a bouquet of spider chrysanthemums.

Peter Colomello of Millbrook was best man for his brother. Ushers were Ralph Colomello, brother of the bridegroom; Raymond Ciferri, both of Millbrook; Neil Freundorfer, brother of the bride, Kingston; and Jerome Aiena, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Poughkeepsie.

For her wedding trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica, the bride wore a white and pink-colored double knit dresscoat ensemble.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston's Endwell High School, was employed by the purchasing department, IBM, Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Fairfield College, served two years in the U.S. Marine Corps, and is employed by the purchasing department, IBM, Kingston.

The couple will reside at Skyline Drive, Apt. 17, Saugerties.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Gayle T. Palmer Weds William L. Brackett

On Saturday, Nov. 2, 1968 in St. John's Church, West Hurley, marriage vows were exchanged by Gayle Theresa Palmer of West Hurley and William Lawrence Brackett of Saugerties.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Palmer of John Street, West Hurley. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ruth Brackett of 100 Livingston Street, Saugerties.

Officiating at the 12 o'clock ceremony was the Rev. Morris Walsh, pastor. Mrs. Aleksander Narel of West Hurley was organist and soloist for the occasion. Selections included Schubert's "Ave Maria," "Mother Beloved," and "On This Day."

Mr. Palmer gave his daughter in marriage. He escorted her to the altar which was decorated with arrangements of white mums, snapdragons and palms. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

For the wedding ceremony the bride wore an A-line gown of peau de soie and Alencon lace accented with seed pearls and crystals. The gown featured an empire waist, cowl neckline and long Bishop sleeves. The train was mantle type reem-broidered with Alencon lace and a double crown of lace edged with seed pearls and crystals secured a silk illusion veil. The bride carried her mother's prayer book with three white phalaenopsis orchids and showers of stephanotis. She dedicated a bouquet of blue and white flowers at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

Suzanne Palmer of West Hurley was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Patricia LeSeur of Hewlett, L.I., and Dianna Knight of West Hurley and Endicott. They wore gowns of samarron rose Chiari crepe fashioned with scooped necklines and long full sleeves. The empire waists were accented with moss green velvet ribbon bows and streamers. Their circlet type headpieces of rose crepe with moss green velvet had ribbon streamers. The maid of honor carried a cascade of pale pink mums and deep pink sweetheart roses with moss green velvet streamers. The bridesmaids carried cascades of pale pink mums

Pamela Brackett, the bridegroom's niece, served as flower girl in a samarron rose crepe gown styled similarly to that worn by the other attendants. A crown of ivy leaves was worn in her hair and she carried a basket of pink sweetheart roses with pink and white mums.

Lawrence Doud, 3rd, of Newburgh, N.Y., served as best man. Ushers were Arthur R. Palmer of West Hurley, brother of the bride; and Steven Dickhaut of Saugerties.

A reception for 85 guests was given in the Garden Lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel. For her trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa., the bride wore a traveling ensemble consisting of gray and gold wool coat and dress with gray accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

The bride was graduated from Ontario Central School and attended Ulster County Community College and Tennessee Technical University. She was employed by Kingston Trust Company, Broadway, Kingston.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Saugerties High School and Albany Business College, served one year of duty in Vietnam with the U.S. Army. He is employed by McKesson and Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. Brackett will be at home at 267½ Humphrey Street, New Haven, Conn.

A HAPPY END TO BEDWETTING!

Do parents realize how unhappy their child is who continually wets the bed? Many do not because the child tries to hide the hurt and shame of bedwetting. You'll never know how serious the bedwetting is to your child and yourself until it is ended—then you'll see... you will have a happier child and a happier family. If the bedwetting is not caused by organic defect or disease, we can show you a safe and proven way to end it. Walter C. Alvarez, M.D., Professor Emeritus of the Mayo Clinic, recommends our educational program... and it has been fully researched and recognized by Joseph G. Molner, M.D., Master of Public Health.

If you sincerely want to end the frustration of bedwetting in your home, complete the coupon. Full information will be mailed to you with no charge or obligation.

It's Here: Pumpkin Pie Season

By GAYNOR MADDON

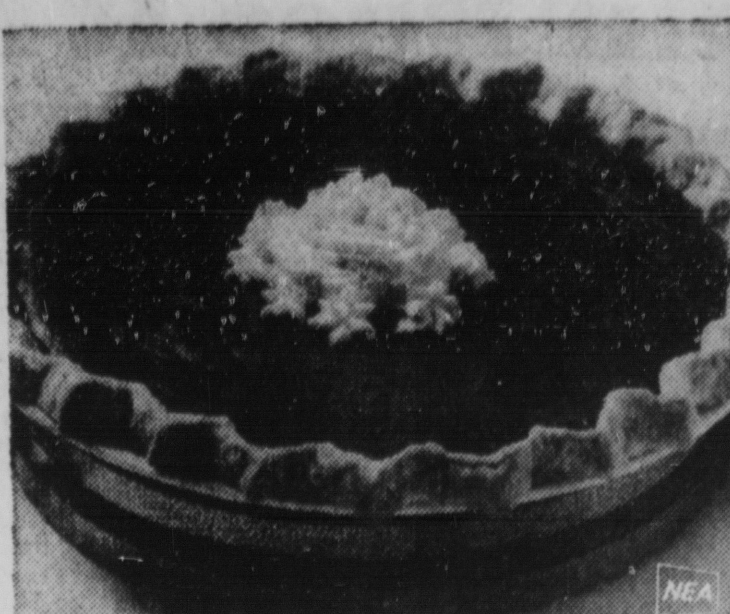

Halloween officially opened the delicious pumpkin pie season. Whether you make it from the pumpkin salvaged from the jack-o'-lantern or from frozen or canned pumpkin, now is the time to begin enjoying it.

Almost every good cook has her own favorite recipe. Some like lots of spices, others prefer the flavor of pumpkin to dominate. But here is a new variation. Peanut butter is one of the ingredients. Try it.

PEANUT BUTTER PUMPKIN PIE

1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 1/2 cups cooked or canned pumpkin
1/2 cup creamy or chunk-style peanut butter
3 eggs
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup light cream
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell with high-fluted edge

Mix together brown sugar, cinnamon, salt ginger and clove in mixing bowl. Stir in pumpkin, then peanut butter. Add eggs; beat slightly. Stir in corn syrup and cream. Pour into unbaked pastry shell, pressing in last portion after pie has been placed on oven rack. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour or until set 2 inches in from edge. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

Peanut butter (?) pumpkin pie.

Cosmetic Hints for Older Women

By AP Newsfeatures

Here are some beauty hints from Eve of Roma, especially designed for the mature woman.

1. The most important thing is to have the skin remain elastic.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Eighmey of Schenectady, N.Y., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Janet Louise, born Tuesday, Oct. 5 in the Schenectady Hospital. Mrs. Eighmey is the former Louise Zwirlein of Balston Spa, N.Y. Mr. Eighmey, who is District Scout Executive in Schenectady, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eighmey of Kingston. Louis Kaye of Kingston is convalescing at Albany Medical Center.

Go to bed with a clean skin. Put on nourishing cream in the morning. Clean the skin at night and leave it clean; the skin must breathe.

2. Use a lotion before and after washing the face so the soap doesn't hurt it.
3. Use cream under your make-up. That way the skin will be helped all day long.

4. Pay particular attention to your neck, hands and elbows. . . they should be creamed also.

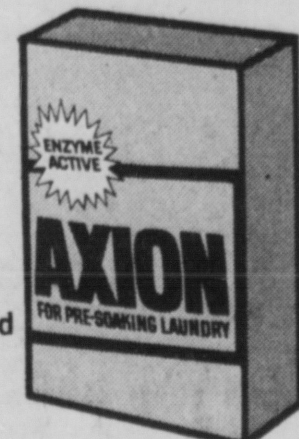

5. Never use too much powder or use powder under the eyes; it only makes you look older.
6. When dieting, be careful to lose weight slowly.
7. Do not get too sunburned; it makes lines.

APPLES IN A JELLY GLASS

Apples to Brighten Breakfast or Brunch

Right now, while fresh apples are plentiful, capture their fragrance and flavor in a delightful conserve that will brighten your breakfast, brunch or tea tables for months to come.

This recipe is so easy to make that once you taste the conserve you may want to make another batch either to keep for yourself or to give away.

Apple Conserve

8 cups thinly sliced apples (about 3 pounds)
2 oranges
1 1/2 cups water
5 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lime juice
1/2 cup minced crystallized ginger
1 cup broken walnut meats

Select tart apples; wash; core, pare, slice thin. Slice unpeeled oranges very thin. Cut each slice in quarters; remove any seeds. Combine water and sugar in large saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add lime juice and fruits. Bring to boil and boil rapidly stirring often, to 220 degrees on a candy-jelly thermometer or until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; skim; ladle into hot jelly glasses at once or half-pint jars. Paraffin jelly glasses at once or seal lids on jars. Label when cool. Makes approximately 7 eight-ounce jelly glasses or half-pint jars.

Helpful Hints

If you have a medium-size funnel you can use it to "hang" an angel food cake (in its pan) when you remove the cake from the oven. Let the cake stand this way until it is cold, then ease it from the pan. Stand the funnel on its wide end and place the tube of the pan over the funnel's narrow end.

When you are braising beef short ribs, use as little water as possible so the gravy will be rich. Half a cup of water should be enough for three pounds of short ribs and a couple of onions as a start; more water may be added if necessary.

If you are investing in new cookie sheets, buy those with no sides at all or with partial rims on a couple of sides for ease in handling. Cookie sheets without sides help cookies to bake and brown well. The cookie sheets should be made of a dull metal because the dulled surface also helps the browning process.

You can bake corned beef hash. Just pack the hash from a couple of one-pound cans into a glass baking dish that is 10 by 6 by 1 1/4 inches. Brush with melted butter or margarine and bake in a moderate oven until piping hot—this may take half an hour.

Delightful salad: marinate cooked snap beans in French dressing; arrange on salad greens and garnish with rounds or sections of oranges.

Denny McLain Does It Again, Unanimous MVP

By CHARLES RICHARDS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—His wife Sharyn was too young in 1948 to be expected to recall much about one Most Valuable Player selection in her family then, so Denny McLain gave her another one Tuesday.

The 24-year-old Detroit Tiger pitcher, already recipient of the Cy Young award as the major leagues' best hurler in recognition of his 31-6 record, was chosen unanimously by the Baseball Writers Association of America Tuesday as the 1968 American League MVP.

When Denny married his wife in October 1963, she was Sharyn Boudreau—daughter of former Cleveland shortstop Lou Boudreau, who got the MVP honor in 1948.

"It surprised me. I got goose pimples all over when Jim Campbell, my general manager, called me yesterday late in the afternoon and told me about it," said McLain, the major's first 30-game winner since 1934.

Detroit catcher Bill Freehan was the only other player listed on the top 10 ballots of each of the 20 American League sportswriters participating in the poll. He finished second in the voting, ahead of Boston's Ken Harrelson, Detroit's Willie Horton, Baltimore's Dave McNally and Cleveland's Luis Tiant. McLain said he took aim on the Cy Young Award during the season, in which he won 31 games—leading the Tigers into World Series meeting with St. Louis, which Detroit pulled out in the seventh game.

But the MVP award—"this was really something, especially since it was unanimous. I really feel good about it. A lot of guys on our club deserve it. I feel very fortunate that I was picked," McLain said.

"It's a great feeling. I don't feel I have to say any more than that."

McLain is the first pitcher in either league to receive a unanimous vote for the honor, the first AL hurler ever to win both the Cy Young and MVP in the same year, the first Detroit player to win the MVP since Hal Newhouse in both 1944 and 1945, and the youngest winner since Newhouse in 1944—the year Denny was born.

The only other pitchers to win both the Cy Young and MVP in the same year were Don Newcombe in 1956 and Sandy Koufax in 1963—both in the National League.

Detroit placed three men in the top five in the voting and four in the top seven. In all, seven Tigers were among the 27 men nominated for the award.

Mel Stottlemyre finished 10th, the first Yankee to finish in the top 10 since Tom Tresh finished ninth in 1965. Frank Howard was eighth in the balloting and became the first member of Washington's expansion club to finish in the top 10.

Mickey Lolich, who pitched the Tigers to three of their four World Series victories over St. Louis, got no mention in the voting. The ballots were cast before the Series began.

DC Senators Will Sell

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As general manager runs through 1970, and of field manager Jim Lemon, whose contract expires after next season.

Robert E. Short, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and chain foodstore executive Jeno F. Paulucci reportedly were in agreement with club owners on the purchase price.

The spokesman said Short and Paulucci were among four groups that have been bidding on the franchise.

Left in the air by the sale of the team would be the status of George Selkirk, whose contract as general manager runs through 1970, and of field manager Jim Lemon, whose contract expires after next season.

Long Term Assurance
An associate of Short said he planned to take over as the new president of the Senators before Dec. 1 and replace Selkirk with a new general manager.

Current co-owners of the team are James H. Lemon and the James M. Johnston estate. An agreement apparently was reached on Lemon's request for long-term assurance that the Washington franchise would not be moved to another city.

The team has been in Washington since 1960, when the American League awarded the franchise to a group of 10 businessmen for $3 million after the former Washington franchise was moved to Minnesota. Three years later, Lemon and Johnston purchased the team for $4.6 million.

The Senators finished last this year. The highest they have finished since 1960 was a tie for sixth in 1967.

Baylor Sparks Los Angeles, San Diego Whips New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elgin Baylor pulled off a last-minute rescue act, but it didn't help his Los Angeles Lakers gain any ground on San Diego in the National Basketball Association's torrid Western Division race.

Baylor whipped in a 10-foot jumper at the gun to tie it, then contributed four points in overtime Tuesday night as the Lakers put down the Chicago Bulls 112-109.

Meanwhile, surprising San Diego survived a late New York rally for a 113-109 conquest in the night's only other NBA game.

That left the Rockets on top of the Western Division with a 6-3 mark, just a shade ahead of Los Angeles, 6-4.

Oakland rode a 30-point outburst by Rick Barry to a 135-116 victory over the Dallas Chaparrals in the night's only American Basketball Association match.

Baylor finished with 33 points, while Jerry Sloan had 25 for Chicago.

New York used a dunk shot by Cazzie Russell with 10 seconds left to trim its deficit to 111-109, but San Diego's Pat Riley countered with a layup with a second to go to secure the Rockets' third straight victory.

Don Kojis led San Diego with 28 and John Block and rookie Elvin Hayes each contributed 25. Russell topped New York with 26.

Oakland, with a commanding lead in the ABA's Western Division, pulled to a 53-42 halftime command and coasted the rest of the way to its sixth triumph in seven games. It was the second straight loss for winless Dallas.

Brain Injury Kills Gridder

Brian Truhn, a 21-year-old senior playing his first year of football for Ithaca College left the field under his own power during a game with Brockport Saturday and then collapsed while sitting on the bench.

Wes Kissell, a teacher in the Ontario School system attended the game to watch his son Wes, Jr., a starting defensive tackle.

"The doctor," Kissell said, "called it aneuria, a kind of ballooning of the cerebral artery. But he said it was the type of thing that could happen anywhere, and there is no reason to believe it actually happened on the field."

An all-purpose back and a Dean's List student, Truhn planned to become a physical education and math instructor.

PB and Rondout In Big Test

By GEORGE THOMSON
Freeman Sports Staff

It is quite amazing how each Saturday for the past three weeks the Rondout Valley Ganders were supposed to have met their "biggest test", and yet continued to dominate the opposition.

Although this sounds like a broken record, it does look like this Saturday's Ulster County Athletic league playoff championship game at Wallkill will be another "toughie" for the Ganders.

The big question is whether or not Pine Bush has learned how to contain Rondout's devastating end sweeps.

The two clubs met earlier in the year and it was a typical day for the Ganders. They rolled up 216 yards on the ground and won 21-0. There are a few more points to consider, however.

The Bushmen now have back the very aggressive Red Mamscheffer at defensive end and Rondout does not have John Meehan Jr. at quarterback and in the defensive backfield. Pine Bush can be dangerous by upsetting a highly touted Liberty team last week 18-7.

But, if hardhitting halfbacks Jim Rowe and Tom Frazier continue to break opposition tackles it could be a long day for the Bushmen.

Coach Don Hauck of Pine Bush said "our boys are really up for this game already, we are working hard to be ready for Rondout Saturday."

Coach John Meehan Sr. doesn't need to say a word. It can be taken for granted that his Ganders will not have a let-down especially since it's his last game.

In the consolation match for third place in the UCAL playoffs, the Marlboro Dukes travel to Liberty who are coming off a very embarrassing defeat at the hands of Pine Bush. The Indians have had their ups and downs this season. On occasion opponents have been able to jam up the middle therefore stunting their strongest offensive asset. Their league record is now 4-2-1, but they are due to explode.

Marlboro, however, is hurting physically and will be without the services of linebacker Wayne Lowe, defensive guard Ed Pross and safety Rich Pasante.

Elsewhere in area pairings

the New Paltz Huguenots will last week, the Raiders knocked New Paltz winless, but get look for greener, or should I say off Millbrook 34-27, a team that they ready to play tough football just plain green, yes, pastures upended the Huguenots 20-0 in ball and to expect anything."

Finally, our western neighbors, the Ellenville Blue Devils, will also be faced with their last chance to win a game this year. Raider coach Vic Orthmann last opportunity of the year to have a satisfactory season going was asked how he would go win a game. They will travel to for them. They're tied for third about getting his boys up for Washingtonville to face a JV place in the Bi-Valley division this nonleague game and he ex-squad because Washingtonville's of the Dutchess County Scholas plained "the idea is not to let program has not reached the League with a 3-3 record. them think about the fact that varsity level."

Durkin: 'The Roof Fell In'

By DENNIS R. CARO
(Freeman Sports Staff)

BRIDGEPORT — The roof fell in for the State University College, New Paltz soccer team here yesterday, and the Hawks went down to their worst defeat of the season 5-1 at the hands of Bridgeport University.

"It was nothing I could pinpoint," commented coach Bobby Durkin. "All eleven of my starting players just had a bad game. We were down and they were up.

"Coach Joe Beame told me it was the best game his squad had played all year. I'm sorry it had to come against us."

Bridgeport was the team New Paltz had to beat. The Hawks had dropped two games by a one-goal margin, one in double overtime, and a convincing win here would have sent them breathing heavily down the necks of the NCAA small-college tournament selection committee.

Bridgeport had beaten Adelphi 2-0, and Durkin said "I thought they were lucky to get away with the win."

The Hawks trounced Adelphi 7-1, and they were confident, perhaps too confident.

"Maybe it's my fault," Durkin said. "I had them too high up for this one, with the comparative score against Adelphi and the chance for the post season tournament. The roof just fell in."

The high power New Paltz offensive had outshot every opponent this year, but Bridgeport shut it down. After taking a total of 470 shots in their first ten games, the Hawks managed only 12.

And they were beaten almost singlehandedly. Jose Santos, Bridgeport's standout forward, switched to left wing from his normal left inside slot scored four of the five goals, two on breakaways.

"We had all the scouting reports in the world on him," Durkin said. "I saw him three times myself. It just shouldn't have happened."

One Chance

New Paltz had but one chance to get back into the game. After Santos had given Bridgeport a 3-0 lead with two first period goals and another in the second frame, Abdi Yunis opened the Hawk scoring in the third period on a crossing pass from Clement Mbadinuju.

The Hawks began to press, hard. If they had gotten another one in the third period Beame said, it would have been a different story.

But goalie Aldo Forte slipped on a crossing pass, and Bridgeports Charlie Egerveri pushed the ball home for goal number four. It was all over.

Santos scored again in the third period and New Paltz really came close.

Durkin started Tim Flannigan in the nets, and the reserve goalie was nicked three times before he was pulled for Forte, the normal starter.

Mistake

"That might have been the biggest mistake," Durkin said. "It's a move he has been making in the past few games, starting Forte at center half-back to beef up the defense, but yesterday 'Forte wasn't doing any better than anyone else."

Aldo, although he allowed two goals, was brilliant in the nets, especially for the last two periods, Durkin said. "He came up with ten or twelve real tough saves," but by that time it was too late.

"I just don't know what happened," he said. The offense and the defense just broke down. Even the boys who stand out consistently week after week didn't play well.

"Hippy (inside right Bobby Hippy, who has sixteen goals for the year) might as well have been back in Indonesia."

It was the final game of the season for New Paltz, which closed out its season with a 7-3-1 record, 3-2-1 in the State University of New York Athletic Conference.

San Diego State Still Tops Small College Top Twenty

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—San Diego State's small college express continues to gather momentum.

The unbeaten Aztecs made highly-regarded Fresno State their seventh victim of the season and 32nd in the last 33 games Saturday by romping to a 42-12 triumph. Don Coryell's high-scoring Aztecs received 28 first-place votes and 332 points — both season highs — from the 35-member United Press International Board of Coaches.

North Dakota State, now 8-0, retained second place, followed again by Chattanooga, Tampa and New Mexico Highlands.

Eastern Kentucky moved up to sixth, Texas A&I took seventh and Troy State advanced to eighth. Arkansas State reappeared in the top 10 after a week's absence, capturing the No. 9 ranking while Weber State, which suffered its first loss of the season Saturday, fell from sixth to 10th.

Morgan State, its 32-game winning streak snapped by North Carolina A&K Saturday, slipped to 11th, followed by Western Kentucky and Willemette, holding their rankings from last week.

Unbeaten Arkansas Tech (8-0) rose from 17th to 14th, followed by Adams State and Florida A&M. East Texas State took 17th and Kings Point, also unbeaten with a 7-0 mark, moved up to 18th. Alcorn A&M and Humboldt were tied for 19th.

San Diego State, aiming for major college recognition in the near future, meets the second of three major college opponents on its schedule next week, taking on a Southern Mississippi team that holds a victory over Mississippi State and suffered narrow defeats to Alabama and Mississippi.

North Dakota State had little trouble beating Northern Iowa 31-15 and Chattanooga recorded a 20-6 victory over Tennessee Tech. Tampa, one of the leading comeback teams of 1968 after winning only one game all last season, edged Northern Michigan 14th last week, for its sixth victory in seven games this season.

New Mexico Highlands' incredible scoring machine demolished Colorado Western 70-7, the fourth time this season the Cowboys, whose star running back, Carl Garrett, is averaging nearly 10 yards per carry, scored 70 points in a single game.

Eastern Kentucky edged Murray State 21-20 in their key Ohio Valley Conference game and Texas A&I clobbered Sul Ross State 43-0. Troy State remained unbeaten, routing McNeese State 52-0 for its eighth victory of the season while Arkansas State University ripped Lamar Tech 48-17.

Dear Abby

Pretender Ponders Career

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and I want to become a famous actress. I think I would be very good at it because ever since I was a little girl I have been very good at "pretending" and that is what acting is, isn't it? Do I have to finish high school to be an actress?

LISA
DEAR LISA: Finish high school. And college, too, if you have a chance. Being good at "pretending" might help a lot because there may be times when you have to "pretend" that you are eating.

DEAR ABBY: About 2 years ago my husband announced that he wanted no part of our marriage or any of its responsibilities. He turned to alcohol, "go go" girls, sports cars everything he once considered immoral, irresponsible and extravagant.

We are now having a lot of problems with our children. They are doing poor work in school and are hard to handle at home. The school counselor called me to inquire into our "home situation."

My husband insists it is none of their business, and how our kids do at school has pointed out other families in which the home life is a mess, but the kids seem to come out all right. Is he right, or am I just nit-picking?

Minor Suits Are Game Savers

By Oswald and James Jacoby

You don't often find yourself with a part score of 20. The bidding seldom stops at one club or one diamond.

When you do have 20 on your side of the ledger, you don't have to pay much attention to it except to bear in mind that three in a minor or four in a minor will now give you game.

The advantage of a 4-4 fit in a suit is enough so that the Stayman Convention is in general expert use to find this fit in a major suit after a no-trump opening, but under normal conditions you prefer three no-trump to five-odd in a minor with one of those 4-4 fits.

With 20 on score it becomes common sense to look for minor-suit games since you only need 10 tricks.

DEAR CURIOUS: When home is a battleground, the casualties are usually the children. Some do survive in spite of the odds, but show me a rebellious, and troubled child, and I will show you a home situation riddled with discord.

DEAR ABBY: About the cross-eyed woman who chewed out her daughter's boyfriend because she offered him a cup of coffee and he said, "I didn't answer you right away because I never realized before that you were cross-eyed, and I didn't know you were talking to me."

My sympathy is with the boy. When I was in school, I had a Spanish teacher who was very cross-eyed. She would ask a general question and three people would answer her from different parts of the room. Naturally, this caused a lot of embarrassment.

If this cross-eyed woman is sensitive about her eyes, she should not leave herself wide open for such embarrassment to herself and others. I also learned from my mother that it is proper and courteous to address a person by his name.

CROSS ABOUT IT

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to ask if you have ever heard of a "moon healer."

There used to be one in Sioux City, Ia. I suffered with a pain in my side for a long time. The doctor told me I should have an operation, but I didn't want that. So I went to this moon healer and she said to just let it go until I had one more attack and after that it wouldn't bother me anymore. Well, it's been 50 years, and I am 72 years old and I'm still here.

I now have another pain. This one is in my head and I sure wish I could find another moon healer someplace. Can you help me locate one?

HEADACHE
DEAR HEADACHE: Sorry, but I know of no "moon healer." But in the meantime, I would recommend a doctor.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's In The Stars
("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Study alternatives. Some ideas are not fully developed. Relations with neighbors, relatives are highlighted. Utilize sense of humor; be versatile. Don't insist on only one method.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Solid indications point to income increase. What you have been seeking could materialize. Be responsible. Make no claims which cannot be backed. Sincere approach today adds to profit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle remains high. Circumstances continue to favor your efforts. Appeal spreads. Write, advertise and publish. Make known your views. Your impact is felt. People are favorably attracted.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Step forward; leave past behind. Don't give in to compulsion to tell all. Be discreet. One you trust may act in unusual manner. Patience is required. Be a self-starter. Accent original approach.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Curb tendency to spend too much. Trust hunch. You can get what you need without being extravagant. Accent on social events. Relations with friends are highlighted. Pleasant surprise is due.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Find out the why of events. Promotion is indicated. With added responsibilities comes greater reward. Higher-observe your performance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You advance by being careful with memos, correspondence, travel plans. Some may express envy. Be philosophical in approach. Realize that you are working toward long-range goal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finances of mate, partner grab spotlight. Emphasis on necessity for change where budget is concerned. Recent resolution should be fulfilled. Otherwise, chance for loss in increase.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Seek harmony. Not wise to insist or demand. Spotlight on public relations. Improve your image. Do so through conciliatory statements. Important to settle domestic misunderstanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be knowledgeable where job enters picture. Some subtle changes may have occurred. Keep up with them. Associate may be trying to pull wool over your eyes. Know this—respond accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good lunar aspect today coincides with pleasure through creative endeavors. Put your heart in special project. You could gain meaningful compliment from one important to you—go to it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Time to complete, to tie loose ends. Obtain settlement. Property value could be affected. Accent sense of security. Day to finish rather than begin — get facts in proper order.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective, high intuitive. You can size up people, situations with unusual accuracy. Change in domestic situation proves beneficial.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER, LEO. Special word to CAPRICORN: keep health resolutions.

Outcasts One of the Best

At times ABC's new integrated western, the Outcasts, seems to be aimed exclusively at masochists.

The dialog frequently zings with racial slurs and the writers skipped school the day non-violence was taught.

But when the self-conscious prejudice between the white and black principals, Don Murray and Otis Young, is displayed in favor of a sound plot, the Outcasts ranks as one of the best new series and with the High Chaparral and Gunsmoke (still), one of the best westerns on TV.

The Saving Grace

The saving grace, if that is the right word, of the series is the strong dual performance of the title stars, Murray, as the aristocrat and young, as the ex-slave, work well together, not in the buddy-buddy fashion of Robert Culp and Bill Cosby but more in the abrasive shouldering of Sidney Poitier and Tony Curtis in "The Defiant Ones."

However, the scripts have not always measured up to the characterizations. Monday night's episode was typical. It offered an interesting gambit with Gloria Foster as a black beauty who is the bait in a con game.

She and Young had some touching scenes together but, of course, the producers couldn't allow them to settle down to an integrated home on the range. To get rid of her, writer Anthony Lawrence has her kill her benefactor, the con man each other. It would be dishonest to the period and doesn't contribute anything.

Neither One Super Clean

Refreshingly, neither one is super clean. Murray said, "Jemal is not a fantastically handsome black man like Poitier, so sweet and lovable. This man is petty, he gets angry. He is a total human being."

Likewise, the role of Earl Corey finally gets Murray out of the pulpit from which he has stood in his most memorable films.

The switch from Mr. Goodness to an antihero "changed the direction of my career," he said. "I took the role because it was different and because the relationship was sociologically important."

"We're trying to resist the Culp-Cosby relationship with the Count your chickens before they've hatched and at least you'll have for awhile the illusion of prosperity.

The best way to approach a woman with a past is with a present.

An optimist is a guy who will leave his front door unlocked all night in the hope that his wife will walk out on him.

After you have heard two eyewitness accounts of an auto accident, you begin to wonder about history.

Doctor Wells — Here is a sleeping pill. Your husband must have absolute quiet.

Mrs. West — When should I give it to him?

Doctor Wells — You don't give it to him. You take it yourself.

Mrs. Brown (the mother, trying to induce her little daughter to go to bed)—Why even the wee little chickens go to bed at sundown.

Little Amy—Yes, but the old hen goes with 'em.

A witness in a case had been examined by the plaintiff's lawyer for the defense for cross-examination.

Lawyer Lee — Now, then Mr. Smith, what did I understand you to say that your occupation is?

Mr. Smith (the witness) — I am a piano finisher.

Lawyer Lee—Yes, I see, but you must be more definite. Do you polish them or move them?

Bennett Robbins used the same staccato touch when he was told that the other side rested and he might begin his cross-examination. Mr. Robbins' client had charged the defendant with alienation of wife's affections.

Lawyer Robbins — Mr. Zebruggi, what is your occupation?

Mr. Zebruggi — I am in the house-wrecking business.

Lawyer Robbins (with a sagacious look at the jury) — That will be all.

Saigon Area Hit Hard By Viet Cong Troops

SAIGON (UPI) — Military spokesmen said today the Viet Cong struck heavily around Saigon, blowing up a new big supply bridge, shooting down three U.S. helicopters and ambushing an American merchant ship on a river near the capital.

The spokesmen said guerrilla frogmen slipped through allied defenses early today and blasted apart a huge section of a two-lane, 1,000-foot bridge on Saigon northern doorstep. Eight persons including seven Americans were wounded and one U.S. serviceman was listed as missing after the blowing of the Phu Cong Bridge.

The ship SS President Jefferson was moving on the Nhe Be River, 15 miles south of the capital, Tuesday when guerrillas on the banks opened fire with rocket grenades, machine-guns and small arms. U.S. Navy patrol craft and gunship helicopters counter-attacked. No damage was reported to the ship.

The spokesmen said three helicopters were shot down near Saigon Monday and Tuesday. A fourth was shot down by guerrillas in the Central Highlands, near the allied base at Pleiku. One American was killed and six wounded in the crashes.

The action around Saigon underlined intelligence reports by allied forces that the Viet Cong was stepping up its harassment around the capital. No major ground action was reported, continuing what military observers said was a month-long lull in major combat in South Vietnam.

But the Saigon fighting was costly. The Phu Cong bridge was built four months ago after the Viet Cong blew up the previous span over the river on the northern suburb.

About 100 miles northeast of Saigon, the battleship New Jersey destroyed 12 Viet Cong bunkers and five other guerrilla structures Tuesday with its 16 inch guns.

Viet Cong gunners early today fired 27 rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle shell into the town of Thoi Binh, 128 miles southwest of Saigon. They killed one Vietnamese soldier and wounded 17 persons. South Vietnamese troops sweeping Mekong Delta jungles 64 miles southwest of the capital killed 79 Viet Cong in daylong fighting Tuesday. Government troops losses were light, spokesmen said.

Still other Viet Cong gunners Tuesday shelled the sprawling U.S. 9th division headquarters in the Mekong Delta with 35 mortar and recoilless rifle shells, wounding two soldiers. American spokesmen said the

Sparring in Paris

PARIS (UPI) — The United States battled friends and foes diplomatically today in an effort to make good President Johnson's promise for enlarged and "intensive" Vietnam talks.

The diplomatic sparring—with both the North and South Vietnam governments—followed scheduled negotiating session which Johnson had billed as the opening of "new phase negotiations."

The session was canceled Tuesday at the request of the U.S. delegation because of South Vietnam's refusal thus far to join the enlarged talks agreed to by Washington and Hanoi last week.

U.S. officials said that because of Saigon's boycott, "our side" was not ready to attend the enlarged meeting as had been envisaged.

U.S. diplomats in Washington and Saigon, were reported working to persuade the South Vietnamese government of Nguyen Van Thieu to join the negotiations to settle the future of Vietnam.

At the same time, U.S. negotiators here continued secret consultations with Hanoi officials to work out a formula for the new talks which Saigon would be willing to accept, sources said.

The root of the problem—and the stumbling block to Johnson's hopes—is the issue of the status which the Viet Cong's (NLF) and the Saigon government will have at the new talks. Hanoi negotiators and the newly-arrived NLF delegation were insisting all four parties have equal and independent status, even though they said this does not mean recognition of Saigon.

Saigon has said it will boycott
